NO THIRD TERM.

Mr. Tilden on the Contest and Its Results.

VIEWS OF CONGRESSMEN-ELECT.

What Messrs. Ottendorfer and Wales Have to Say Under Defeat.

MR. KELLY ON THE VICTORY.

The Results in the Outside States.

THE NEW CONGRESSMEN.

The republican defeat of Tuesday caused few signs of despondency to be manifested yesterday on the one side or of victory on the other. A stranger passing through the city would not have known from any outward sign that a political revolution, affecting the social status of thousands of persons in this country, had been effected on the previous day. With that wonderful adaptation of means to ends that the American people have acquired by a century's familiarity with the institutions of a republic, this great political change was accomplished without disturbing, apparently, by the slightest ripple, the ordinary current of human life. From the Battery to Harlem, there was not even the outward token of the recent conflict. Here and there was a banner that was still swaying in the breeze, with the fair and gentle features of a defeated or a successful candidate portrayed thereon; but, apart from that, there was no hint that a great battle had been lost or won. Men who had worked on the previous day with a vigor which seemed to indicate that the fate of the nation hung upon their exertions were at their ordinary business yesterday, bright and early, apparently oblivious of the mighty change that had been wrought in State and national affairs. This was, however, a mere surface indication. The most casual attention to the conversation of men in the cars, the stages and the saloons, or the overheard talk of the sidewalks, showed that men were comparing notes and taking counsel together as to what this republican defeat really meant. The general result of these talks—talks that were either overheard or participated in by the HERALD reporters—was that the administration had received by these elections a very proper and emphatic rebuke. It was also ascertained that more republicans had voted "scratched" democratic tickets than was generally supposed, and that the motive that had prompted this was a weariness with the financial and the Southern policy of the Grant administration. It was noticeable, too, that in all the talk about the city vote there was everywhere, without an exception, openly expressed congratulations that "Jimmy Hayes" had been defeated. Men said, one to the other, "New York has saved itself from that disgrace anyhow." A prominent democrat, and one very likely to be posted in this regard, said that he had good reasons to believe that Morrissey had spent from $40,000 to $50,000 on this election, and that Hayes had spent about $15,000. Large sums of money had been spent to influence the delegates to the Nominating Convention, so as to obtain the Tammany nomination for Hayes, making certain that if the nomination was obtained the victory at the election was sure. General Jones was spoken of everywhere with great respect, and as thoroughly worthy of the possession of the great municipal prize of the canvass.

CITY HALL AND COURT HOUSE.

Among the employés of the city government the effect of Tuesday's election took a practical shape. In all the offices the clerks and messengers were considering how long their official heads would remain on their shoulders. One of the questions anxiously discussed was whether the Mayor-elect would endeavor to promote more harmony in the various Commissions by making some change in the personnel of the offices, as far as he could do so, without waiting for legislative action. As this was a question that could not now be answered, the employés generally determined henceforth to be good democrats and wait for something turning up. In the offices of the Board of Aldermen the only anxiety manifested was to ascertain the successful candidates for the next Board; an effort that will scarcely meet with absolute success for a day or two yet. It was, however, quite certain that the returns, as far as heard from, show that the Board will have a large democratic majority.

POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

The marble hall of Mulberry street, which in the old time was the lounging place of politicians, and the building where men with political proclivities of the right stripe most did congregate, has ceased to be a rendezvous of this character. The Commissioners do not profess to be politicians in the professional sense, and therefore it has come to be understood that the politician, as a politician, is not particularly welcome in the building. The consequence of this was made manifest yesterday. There was a great throng of men in the corridors throughout the day, but it was made up entirely of inspectors of election who were delivering their returns at the Bureau of Elections. The Commissioners were in their respective rooms, and only admitted to their presence their personal friends. Discursive talk about the election of the previous day was not encouraged, and as this seemed to be understood there were few prominent politicians at Police Headquarters yesterday.

TAMMANY HALL.

Tammany Hall and its adjoining rooms were given over yesterday to the "sweepers," "scrubbers" and "dusters." If a politician "dropped in" he soon "dropped out" again. He was told in a very practical shape that he was in the way. This was good for the adjoining saloons, and in the neighborhood of Fourteenth street there were a goodly number of Tammany men here and there. They all took their drinks, which were light and of the soda water and lemonade kind, and taken as a correction of the little excess of the previous night, as if their feet were again on their native heath, and as though there was something in the air that spoke of "a good time coming, boys." Even here it was noticeable that the election of General Jones to the Registership was not regarded as a disaster. Nobody even whispered a regret for Jimmy Hayes, and all were agreed that it served Morrissey right for forcing Jimmy's nomination.

FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL.

What a falling off was here! The suit of rooms on the Twenty-fourth street entrance that had been used by the State Committee, the walls of which had encompassed so many distinguished republicans, men whose fame is in all the nation, and at whose tables had been busily engaged for weeks past a small army of clerks, was yesterday transformed into bedrooms. All was quiet, peace, stillness, and a small walnut bedstead, with spotless linen laid thereon, where before had resounded the tramp of the nation's liberators. All remembrances of the past, so bitter in their memories; all reminders of the ignoble defeat of the men who came there "to praise Cæsar, not to bury him," had been cast into oblivion by the kindly offices of the chambermaid. At the bar, even, and in the newsroom a republican office-holder could not be found.

MR. TILDEN INTERVIEWED.

A HERALD reporter had a protracted interview yesterday afternoon with the Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, who was on Tuesday elected by the people at large as the next Governor of New York. When he arrived at the gentleman's residence he was informed that Mr. Tilden had gone out riding, as usual, through Central Park, and that he was not likely to return to his Gramercy Park mansion until late in the day.

Accepting the hospitalities extended him at the house, he amused himself until the hour of two P. M., at which time Mr. Tilden arrived. A moment after the reporter sent in his card and was welcomed by the successful gubernatorial candidate, who was arrayed in his ordinary morning riding costume of Scotch cap, cavalry boots and silver spurs. The reporter informed Mr. Tilden that he had been sent by the HERALD to interview him, and his reply was that the characteristic interviewer was always hungry, and that, as he himself had not tasted a mouthful since early morning, both had better take lunch before conversation. In reply to an inquiry Mr. Tilden stated that he had very little to say, and that the visit, occurring at the hour it did, was highly infelicitous, as he had an important engagement down town, for the fulfilment of which he was momentarily expecting his carriage.

THE THIRD TERM.

REPORTER—But, Mr. Tilden, have you nothing whatever to say to me about Grant and the third term?

"Yes, I have," returned Mr. Tilden with a smile. "I think the people of this State yesterday entered an emphatic protest against Grantism and a third term."

REPORTER—Do you really think, Mr. Tilden, that President Grant thinks that he can be elected for a third term?

Mr. TILDEN—Well, I scarcely know what the President will think after reading the returns from the various States to-day; but at the same time our President is very persistent, closing his ears against the advice of his associates, against the voice of popular opinion, while at the same time he professes a contempt for what he calls "the extraordinary pressure of the New York press." That he has for a long time entertained the purpose of running for a third term

I HAVE NO DOUBT.

Indeed, private information from persons who have the best facilities for acquiring knowledge upon the subject makes me feel as certain as one can be in regard to such a thing that General Grant's private design is by re-election, and, if he succeeds, why may he not run for a fourth and fifth term? All the information obtained from eminent republicans, who can scarcely be mistaken on the subject, convinces me that what I say is true. Of course it is possible that General Grant's refusal to make expression which would commit himself might be accounted for in either of

TWO WAYS.

But at the same time it is barely possible that it might be the dictates of a personal pride. Almost any other man would feel some consideration for the entreaties of his nearest friends, for his Cabinet and for the interests of the great party which for two Presidential terms in the face of all obstacles has supported him. This fact alone ought to be sufficient to induce the man to disclaim an intention which he does not entertain, especially if that intention be one which most people would regard with alarm and abhorrence. The most probable solution is, that the President does not wish but on the contrary intends to await any opportunity that may offer itself to gratify his ambition. At all events it is certain that men of high intelligence in Washington, with peculiar means of acquiring correct information from the secret councils of the republican party, both believe and assert that General U. S. Grant entertains the design of running for a third term.

TO COMMIT HIMSELF,

AFFAIRS OF STATE.

REPORTER—Well, leaving the subject of the third term, against which you have personally, in your conversation with me, passed such an emphatic protest, what can you tell me of the manner in which you intend to administer the duties of your office?

Mr. TILDEN—I have already given you more time than I intended. But in answer to your last question I would say that on Tuesday last the people judged of me and of my life. I intend to give the people in return, as far as may depend upon me, just as good a government as is possible. No man ever entered the executive office of a State with more absolute freedom to act upon his own good judgment than myself; no man was ever more free from all entanglement and the misleading influence of personal ambition. I may fail in judgment as to what I ought to do in some particular instance, but if such is the case it will be solely from defect of understanding. As far as I may ascribe to myself any mission, it is to lift the standard of official life and public administration to the same elevation which they formerly had. For the last twenty years there has been a steady and gradual descent. We must now return to a better condition of things, or popular government will be lost. I consider no benefaction to our four and a half millions of people of equal value to the renovation of the machinery of human society which makes and executes the laws and administers justice. There has been no time in the history of the country when improvement has been so needful as now. I appreciate my situation, I assume my obligations, trusting that during my term of office all things may be ruled in justice, dignity and honor.

A CHAT WITH MR. WALES.

Mr. Wales, who was in a very good humor, said that as far as he himself was concerned the result was just what he had expected. He had only been here two days, after his return from Europe, when a committee came to him offering him the nomination. He declined it at first, as he did not desire to enter the political arena, but as it was represented to him that he was the only man on whom they were able join, as he had kept away from political cliques and manœuvres, he accepted the nomination, never expecting, however, that he would be elected. Mr. Wales was then asked why the republicans did not indorse Ottendorfer. He replied that they could not afford to divert the strength of the party from the Governorship. If they had supported Ottendorfer it would have cost them a great many votes for Dix.

MR. WALES ON THE VOTE.

Mr. Wales, in the further course of the conversation, said, with modest frankness, that he did not think he had greatly disappointed his republican friends who had forced the nomination upon him because they considered him the strongest available candidate. His vote was 5,000 behind that of Dix, while Wickham's was 17,000 behind Tilden, showing that he (Wales) did not run so very badly at all. Ottendorfer took undoubtedly many votes from him.

In regard to the Governorship, Mr. Wales expressed great disappointment. General Dix, in his opinion, was one of the best Governors New York had ever had. There was no doubt that the third term agitation begun by the HERALD and so persistently carried on by it was, to a great extent, the cause of this astonishing defeat. After his return from Europe he was astonished to find that the HERALD'S ideas on Cæsarism, as it was called, had taken a wonderful hold of the best classes of the community. He was very sorry for this, as he felt convinced that General Grant would, under no circumstances, accept a nomination for

THE THIRD TERM.

There was no doubt that the republican party had received a very severe rebuke for its many laches in the administration of the national affairs, and because it had failed to respond to the wishes of the people in a great many respects. Another cause of the defeat of the republican party was the stagnation of business, which was laid to the administration, although it had literally nothing to do with it. General Butler had also greatly hurt the party, and he (Mr. Wales) was heartily glad that he had been defeated. He understood that Wickham and Kelly had promised to give all the idle laborers employment and thought that, unless they handled this labor question very carefully, serious trouble must ensue from the disappointment of their hopes. Of course, it was impossible to give all the idle workingmen employment, and he thought it a great wrong to delude them with such false promises. In conclusion Mr. Wales regretted that General Grant had not followed the advice of the HERALD, shaken off, for once, his usual reticence and declared himself on the subject of the third term.

WHAT MR. OTTENDORFER SAYS.

Mr. Ottendorfer was visited last evening at his magnificent residence in East Seventeenth street. The burden of his defeat sat certainly lightly on his shoulders. His usually cheerful and pleasant face wore, if possible, a still more good humored expression, and his manner had lost nothing of its amiability. In fact, so far as Mr. Ottendorfer's appearance is concerned, he might as well have been the successful candidate as the defeated one. His views Mr. Ottendorfer expressed very readily. He said his main purpose in going into the canvass was his indignation at the manner in which Wickham and Hayes had been nominated, and he wished to give the people a chance to protest against such a subversion of their rights. Wickham and Hayes were the choice of two or three men, and not of the people, and it was time to check the growth of such practices, which could not but undermine the very foundation of republican institutions.

He (Mr. Ottendorfer) knew that Tammany could be vanquished if the opposition could only be united, and the independent democrats told the republicans that they would nominate any good man who would be acceptable to them. They (the independents) proposed William Butler Duncan or Royal Phelps, in conformity with the suggestion of the HERALD, but the republicans thought they would rather "let the matter go by default," and declined to enter into any alliance. As, finally, no other man could be found to run on the independent ticket, he (Mr. Ottendorfer) although, of course, he never entertained the slightest expectation of being elected. The movement was to be a protest against Kelly and Morrissey, that was all. It had, in so far, been successful, as Hayes had been defeated, which was certainly a matter for every one's congratulation. Some people had asked why he did not withdraw when the republicans had refused to indorse his nomination. Well, the reason for this line of policy on his part was very plain. Three-fourths of the votes given for him were those of Tammany Germans, who, if he had withdrawn, would have voted the Tammany ticket. Out of the 24,000 votes which he received over 20,000 were probably Germans—15,000 democrats and 5,000 republicans. If he had withdrawn the republican vote would have been increased by 5,000, but the Tammany vote would have been swelled by 15,000.

CONSENTED TO BECOME A CANDIDATE,

When asked as to the immediate causes of his defeat Mr. Ottendorfer said his party had which, of course, was a great disadvantage. He was also betrayed by some of the candidates for Congress and Assembly, who promised to "run" his tickets from their boxes, and "run" Wales' tickets instead. This was, for instance, the case with regard to O'Brien's boxes. Mr. Ottendorfer, who is as frank as he is fearless in the expression of his views, confessed that he had expected to draw out a larger vote—about 30,000. The Germans had undoubtedly gone into the contest with a will, and he was positively touched by the general enthusiasm among his countrymen, which was much greater than he had had a right to expect. The German vote in this city amounted to about 28,000 or 30,000. He understood that 27,000 of these had registered, and this vote was to be distributed as follows:—5,000 for the Tammany ticket, 1,000 for the republican and over 20,000 for himself. The remainder of his vote came from Americans.

One of the principal reasons why so many Germans voted against him was because the Catholic German priests worked actively against him, making the German Catholics believe that he was an enemy of the Church because he upheld Bismarck's anti-Catholic Church policy in the columns of the Staats Zeitung. The idea seemed to afford Mr. Ottendorfer much amusement, for he laughed over it heartily.

A TALK WITH SACHEM KELLY.

The triumphant rally of the democracy in this city on Tuesday last naturally draws attention to the strategist who planned the battle, now that the atmosphere is once again cleared of the political smoke incident to the struggle for supremacy. There can be little doubt that the contest for the Registership between Mr. Hayes and General Jones created more personal interest than any other event on the county ticket, simply from the fact that the race alluded to was expected to be the closest. It was claimed, for instance, that the thorough discipline and excellent organization of the Tammany Hall forces would carry Hayes through by a handsome majority, although it was generally conceded that no more formidable candidate for the office could have been selected than his opponent. In order to obtain the views of Mr. John Kelly as to the probable causes which led to the defeat of the Tammany nominee as well as in other matters appertaining to the election, a representative of the HERALD visited him yesterday at his office in Nassau street.

Mr. Kelly seemed to be in good spirits, although evidently considerably fatigued. In referring to the defeat of Hayes, he said that the impression prevailing on the day of election that Hayes was John Morrissey's candidate was entirely erroneous. Several candidates had been mentioned before the nomination, and the selection of Mr. Hayes was due mainly to his own indefatigable exertions. Mr. Morrissey was his friend, and he certainly had a right to assist him in every way he could. But Mr. Hayes owed a great deal to his own efforts. Among the elements which contributed to the defeat of Hayes the fact that he had belonged to the old Board of Supervisors was taken advantage of by the opposition and made capital of, so far as misrepresenting his actions was concerned. Mr. Kelly said he considered Hayes a very eligible candidate and a man who would have given general satisfaction to the people. He was well acquainted for years with his character and reputation, and he had every reason to hope that he would be elected. Mr. Kelly complimented his opponents for the skilful manner in which General Jones' interests had been taken care of. In conclusion, he referred to the painful event which had marred the election proceedings in the Twenty-first ward, and hoped that the time was at hand when peace and good order would mark our annual political contests.

THE OPINION OF JOHN MORRISSEY.

Last evening a representative of the HERALD called at the Hoffman House for the purpose of having a talk with John Morrissey in regard to the political battle whose last gun was fired at four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Morrissey has his home at the Hoffman House, with his wife and children, and was very busy all day and evening receiving despatches and holding conferences with prominent democratic leaders in regard to the result of the elections. Those who suppose that Morrissey is downcast in regard to the defeat of Hayes for Register evidently have not seen him since the fight. He looks upon the result as a most glorious proof of the compactness and solidity of the Tammany organization, and asserts that, despite the traitors, who have been punished and beaten, the democracy have won. The elevator in the Hoffman House took the HERALD representative and Mr. Morrissey to his suit of rooms, and the latter gentleman having lighted a good cigar and taken off his coat, having been previously attired in black evening dress, the powwow began.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—What do you think, Mr. Morrissey, of the general result of the State and local elections?

Mr. MORRISSEY—I am not surprised at the result. I stated when Mr. Tilden was nominated at Syracuse that he would be elected by a handsome majority. I thought that he was the strongest man that could have been nominated. He fought corruption in his own party. He was the best man to attack the republican party within the State.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—Why was he the best man?

Mr. MORRISSEY—Because every man that knows him also knows that he is an honest man, as well as a man of great ability. My reasons for thinking that he would be elected were that the people were tired of a republican administration. Men in business were not making any money; there were thirty or forty thousand people out of employment in the city of New York; half of the workshops were closed throughout the State. No change could make their condition any worse than it is at present.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—Mr. Morrissey, do you feel that the Tammany organization has won a great triumph in the city and county of New York?

Mr. MORRISSEY—I think that Tammany has gained wonders; they have elected seventeen members out of twenty-one in the different Assembly districts of the city, and they have elected every member of Congress nominated by them. They have elected all of their county ticket, with the exception of Mr. Hayes for Register.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—Mr. Morrissey, how do you explain the defeat of Mr. Hayes?

Mr. MORRISSEY—By the separate effort of the press against him, and by the combined efforts of the traitors to the democratic party.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—Why was the press against him?

Mr. MORRISSEY—I don't think that they understood his position. It is true he was in the Board of Supervisors when there was a combination between the republicans and democrats. The two leaders of that combination were William M. Tweed on one side as a democrat and the late Henry Smith on the republican side. It took seven out of twelve votes in the Board to carry any measure or bill. James Hayes was never in that combination. He voted for bills which in my judgment it was foolish for him to have done. He did no more than any other man who held office under the Ring at that time. If they did not do as the Ring wanted them to do they had no political future. Hayes fought Tweed & Co. when he was a member of the Board of Supervisors in 1870. He went to Albany and asked for the abolition of the Board of Supervisors. Had he received any portion of the plunder through the Board of Supervisors Hayes would certainly not have done that. It must be remembered by the public that James Hayes had incurred the enmity of the Ring, together with myself, and we were both expelled by the Ring from Tammany Hall in 1870.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—Who were the principal traitors, as you call them, Mr. Morrissey, that helped to defeat Mr. Hayes?

Mr. MORRISSEY—John Fox and Thomas Creamer. They were the leaders of the traitorous party.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—I see that Senator John Fox had a severe letter against yourself and James Hayes, which was published in the HERALD.

Mr. MORRISSEY—That is no more than I could expect from a man like Fox. There is not a dollar that he has got to-day that he has not stolen in political positions that he has held. He commenced in the Board of Aldermen and was in the ring in the Board of Supervisors, and no bills passed there that he did not get his percentage out of. Ingersoll, Garvey and Woodward, if they so desired, could tell the amount which Fox received. He was noted for asking and getting more than anybody else in the Board. This is one of the men who has dared to asperse the honesty of James Hayes. Fox was elected to the Senate last winter, and the first move that he made was to get on the Committee of Cities through the influence of prominent republicans, and for this he agreed to protect their interests, and he was also to protect the interests of Van Nort's department and the Police Department. He was particularly anxious to protect them. There was one bill which was introduced into the Committee on Cities, giving the Commissioner of Public Works power to do fifteen miles of work into an unlimited supply of money which the Commissioner of Public Works was to expend when he "deemed it most expedient." That was the exact language of the bill. Fox signed that report and advocated the passage of the bill. The Committee on Organization of Tammany Hall, seeing this infamous job, met and instructed Fox to vote against the bill. Had this bill passed the Commissioner of Public Works would have had 25,000 men employed on this work, and for this work they would have been compelled to vote against the democratic party. A refusal to comply would have lost them their situations. There has not been one thieving job in the State Senate since he has been there that John Fox has not voted for. He made a combination with the republicans to pass the Chambers street and the Vesey street railroad bills. If you will look at the names of the incorporators in the bills you will find that they are all republicans with the exception of Fox's own intimate friends. These bills were passed against the decided protest of merchants and business men, with A. T. Stewart among others. Fox states in his letter to the HERALD that his constituents have "honored him" and he has "served them." It looks to me as if he had not served anybody but himself, and I think that it will be a long while before the people will "honor" him again.

At this juncture Mr. James Hayes and Mr. George Middleton, who had called to see Mr. Morrissey, entered, and were greeted quite warmly by the latter.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—What do you think about the United States Senatorship, Mr. Morrissey?

Mr. MORRISSEY—It appears to me that it might be a very close contest, and possibly one vote might decide it. I warn the democracy to keep watch of John Fox in the contest for the United States Senatorship, because if there is money on the other side they will certainly have to do everything in their power to prevent him from taking it. It will take a loaded cannon trained on Senator Fox to keep him from taking the money.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—What was the course of John Fox in the late election?

Mr. MORRISSEY—He made a bargain with the same republicans who had placed him on the Committee on Cities, providing that if they would run a candidate for Congress in the Fifth Congressional district, he would work with his friends to support Patrick Jones for Register. The republicans carried out their part of the contract and Fox carried out his part for the first time in his life. The republicans nominated Eugene Earle for Congress in the Fifth Congressional district, who only got six votes. Dix got 5,055 votes in the same district. I would like to have Fox explain how he accounts for the difference in the figures on the vote between Governor and Congressman?

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—Why did you take such an interest, Mr. Morrissey, in Mr. Hayes? The public are curious to know.

Mr. MORRISSEY—I have known him for many years; when I ran for Congress he served me faithfully. I thought he was competent to hold any office under the city government.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—Is it true that Mr. Hayes is rich?

Mr. MORRISSEY—He ought to be, if what the newspapers say be true. He is not rich. I suppose he is to-day worth in the neighborhood of $60,000. He bought some property some years ago in the Fourteenth ward, which has enhanced but very little in value, and brings him in just rent enough to support himself and family and educate his children.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—The canvass made by Mr. Hayes must have cost him a considerable amount of money. How did he get it?

Mr. MORRISSEY—The day he was nominated he did not have $1,000 in cash in the world. I loaned him $18,000 to carry his canvass on. I would not mention this fact but for the impression that has got before the public that he made great sums of money while holding official positions.

HERALD REPRESENTATIVE—Who made the nomination of James Hayes for Register? Was it made by John Kelly, yourself, or by the Tammany organization?

Mr. MORRISSEY—Mr. Kelly never told me that he would go for Mr. Hayes. When I asked him for his assistance he stated that it was an office that he had not interfered with, and that he had not taken any part in the nomination. It was uncertain who would be nominated for Register until the day that the Convention met. I went to every delegation in the Convention and used whatever influence I had to have them go for Hayes. He got the nomination unanimously, 650 delegates voting for him, Fox's delegation voting for Hayes among the rest. I do not regret any part I have taken in the support of Hayes. I should not have done it if I had not thought that James Hayes was a good democrat and an honest man, just as I think this night and hour."

The interview was then concluded, it being a very late hour and the HERALD representative bade him good evening. As he left Mr. Middleton said, "I tell you it was Waterloo for the Kickers."

MR. RICHARD SCHELL'S VIEWS.

Among the Congressmen elect visited yesterday by a representative of the HERALD was Mr. Richard Schell, who has been elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. David B. Mellish. Mr. Schell gave it as his decided opinion that the sweeping victories gained on Tuesday last by the democratic party was a decided and clear indication on the part of the people that they desired a change in the administration of national affairs. This, therefore, denoted that on the next Presidential election the democratic candidate would be chosen by an overwhelming majority. As to who the standard bearer of the party would be he thought it was almost too early to venture an opinion upon, but the triumphant manner in which Mr. Tilden had been elected he thought was a pretty sure indication that he would be the democratic candidate. For, said Mr. Schell, a man who can organize and successfully carry out such a campaign would command the support of every democrat. Again, he being the chosen of the State of New York, with the immense influence gained therefrom, as a natural consequence will have the benefit of all the prestige that such a position creates. In regard to the possible candidate for the Presidency on the republican side Mr. Schell expressed his opinion that it would be Senator Conkling, or, possibly, ex-Governor Washburne. The latter, however, he thought, would have to give way for the first named, for the reason that although he did good service in his position while minister at Paris his deeds, which were then so much talked of and lauded, would be forgotten, while, on the other hand, Mr. Conkling had been constantly before the people. He thought, too, that this gentleman was generally accredited with a greater degree of ability to exercise the functions appertaining to the high office of President.

PRESIDENT GRANT DOES NOT SEEK A THIRD TERM.

When questioned in regard to what his opinion was as to the possibility of General Grant seeking a third term Mr. Schell said:—"I think the recent elections have effectually put a stop to any such idea being put into force, if it ever existed on the part of the republican leaders. But I am free to say that President Grant, as far as I can judge, never had any intention of seeking a re-election; for he has several times told me he would not be a candidate for another term under any circumstances. This he told me in the most emphatic language. However, in any event he has now no chance of being re-elected, even should he decide to change his views and run for the office of President again."

THE DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY IN CONGRESS.

In referring to the probable effect of Tuesday's elections on the next Congress, Mr. Schell said:—"I have really not had time to pay much attention to this subject as yet, for I have been so busy attending to my own canvass; but as far as I can judge we shall have a good majority, and I think the result thereof will be to give increased confidence to business men generally, which will inevitably lead to greater activity in both commercial and financial affairs, for the reason that the people will be certain that the legislation will be carried out on a sound and settled basis. I am not a member of the next Congress, for my term expires in March; I have therefore paid but little attention to the policy likely to be pursued by the democratic party in the House in regard to financial matters. I am personally rather than contracting it. I think it would be better for the country in every way. I believe in the Ohio doctrine. At the same time the present system of national bank currency should be done away with, and nothing be allowed as the circulating medium but legal tenders issued by the government. These legal tenders would only be issued against securities of fixed or sound value, such as bonds, which might be deposited and drawn against at their par price. This system would not place any more paper money on the market than such as is absolutely needed, while at the same time it would prevent financial panics and would soon bring about the feeling that the currency of the country was based on a sound principle, for no one could get a dollar from the Treasury except as against collaterals deposited. Thus a return to specie payment could be had at any moment it was deemed expedient. In fact, a legal tender currency such as this would be equal to gold. It would, at all events, make an easy money market, and an easy money market means good business and prosperity for all, especially for the working classes. Trade of all kinds would revive and we should be relieved of such exhibitions of widespread distress as that so prevalent last winter."

IN FAVOR OF EXPANDING THE CURRENCY

HON. SMITH ELY, JR., SPEAKS.

Hon. Smith Ely, Jr., the Congressman-elect from the Seventh district, was found yesterday evening at the Manhattan Club, in company with a large number of prominent democrats, who were all busily engaged talking over the victory. Mr. Ely appeared to be particularly jubilant. He said, when addressed by the HERALD representative and in answer to questions put to him, that he thought the gain made by the democratic party was due to the evident, and now expressed, desire on the part of the American people to secure a change of the national administration. They are convinced, said Mr. Ely, that they cannot do worse than during the past few years, while the probabilities point decidedly to an improvement by putting the democrats into power. That there will be a democratic majority in the House of Representatives there can be no doubt. The returns show that that majority will be about twenty, which is sufficient to give the control.

WHO IS TO BE SPEAKER.

As to who will be Speaker, I can only say that at present it looks to me as though the choice would fall upon Hon. Fernando Wood. He seems to be looming up as the most likely to be chosen, and I do not know of any one who could better fill the office. He has had great experience and is well versed in all the technicalities of parliamentary proceedings.

THE CURRENCY QUESTION.

When asked as to his views in regard to the policy likely to be pursued by the democratic party in dealing with the financial question, Mr. Ely said:—"I am personally a hard money man and believe in a return to specie payments at the earliest possible moment, but I doubt very much whether the Forty-fourth Congress will be convened before December, 1875, so there is plenty of time in which we can make up our mind as to what is the best way to determine upon a good plan which will meet with general approbation. There are of course a variety of opinions on this subject, according to locality—for instance, in the West people want expansion, while we in the East want hard money. The people, however, before the time for action comes will have thoroughly discussed the matter, and we shall then know what to do."

GRANT'S THIRD TERM KILLED.

In referring to the third term question Mr. Ely said:—"I am unquestionably of opinion that all chance of Grant being re-elected is now gone forever. Our late victories I attribute, in a great measure, to the talk that has occurred on this subject and the fear that the people had of such an undesirable event being consummated. They, too, have had enough of republican rule, or rather, I should say misrule, and want a change. There is no telling, however, with any degree of certainty what General Grant may finally decide upon. My impression is that he will retire, but if he seeks a re-nomination he can easily secure it with his immense patronage and power. He, however, I think, has sufficient good sense to see that he would be defeated. I have an idea that when he makes up his mind not to run that who will be one of those men who have been intimate with him in his pleasures. That he would nominate either Conkling or Washburne I do not one moment imagine. He does not believe in men who possess the cold, calculating and intellectual superiority of either of these gentlemen. A well educated man is the last he would think of. It will be somebody that is with Grant, of Grant and that has always been for Grant. He will be as he always has been, led by his personal feelings. The democratic candidate for the Presidency will be, I think,

HON. THOMAS F. BAYARD, OF DELAWARE,

who will be satisfactory to all sections. He is well situated as to locality, and as we have tried twice with men from New York and failed to elect them, it would be unwise, as well as unfair, to repeat the experiment.

SHALL TILDEN BE UNITED STATES SENATOR?

We have a majority in the Assembly, and can elect, I have no doubt, the United States Senator. As to who it will be is as yet uncertain, but I am of opinion that Mr. Tilden will try his utmost to secure the position and then retire from the Governorship. The party, however, I fancy are of opinion that he should be satisfied. If this view prevails, and I think it will, why then ex-Governor Seymour can have the office if he will accept it. No doubt Mr. Tilden would like it, for it is a place giving a higher salary, greater honor, and is, besides, better fitted to his capabilities, for he would shine more in the Senate than in any position where he is called upon to exercise executive powers. He will have to be content, however, with the gubernatorial chair. He will not be put forward as a candidate for the Presidency. That matter is being now discussed in this club, and as we expect to have something to say about the next election you may take my word for it that the gentleman I have previously named is the one that will be chosen."

A TALK WITH MR. HEWITT.

Mr. Abram S. Hewitt, the Congressman elect for the Tenth district, was also visited by a HERALD representative at the residence of the venerable Peter Cooper. Mr. Hewitt expressed himself as more than pleased with the result of the elections in the city and State, while at the same time he said he was particularly gratified at the splendid victories obtained by the democracy in other parts of the Union. In referring to his own election Mr. Hewitt said:—"The people of this city have no idea what the battle was that I had to fight. I did not seek office, in the first place, and it was only at the oft-repeated solicitations of friends that I consented to accept a nomination. I was told that there would be no contest, except, probably, against a republican, which would have been no contest at all. After I had agreed to run, however, I found that James O'Brien intended to make a fight for the office of Congressman, and I at once became convinced that it was a contest in which everything was at stake, for his candidature meant on his side as against law and order on the other, or my side, and of which I was made by accident the champion. I soon became convinced that the struggle would be a bitter one on his side, and I set to work to endeavor to counteract the evil influences I was informed he intended to bring to bear. Had I not had such a long experience in political campaigns and known how a canvass is made I doubt whether I should have been successful. As it was, I am happy to say that principle and order has triumphed. The disgraceful conduct of O'Brien, which finally culminated in a murder, on election day, ought to be made known to the public, and he himself be shown up to the people in his true colors. The police, too, are greatly to blame for the rioting and shooting which occurred, and the Commissioners ought to be removed from office for

RUFFIANISM AND COMMUNISM

INCOMPETENCY AND INEFFICIENCY.

I was informed several days ago that on election day O'Brien intended to secure his own election by a system of intimidation and ruffianism, and I set to work to prevent it. His plan was, and as he subsequently tried to carry it out, at the head of about 150 desperate thieves and ruffians of the lowest type, to rendezvous at a certain point, and to march up Second avenue to the limits of the district and back again through First avenue, and on the way to destroy all the ticket boxes and ballots, and at the same time to beat and maltreat the attendants at these boxes, so as to strike terror through the district and prevent people from voting. I notified the Police Commissioners of what O'Brien's intention was, furnished them with names of the parties who were to be employed and also of witnesses who knew of the facts. These officials promised to furnish a force of 200 men, to be stationed, in citizens' dress, along the avenues; but on election day not one was to be found. I again, when the trouble began, asked for aid, but the police for some time failed to put in an appearance. Hence the fighting and the murder. Coroner Croker and his friends the brothers Hickey had nothing whatever to do with the shooting, and they are much to be commended for their action. Had it not been for them O'Brien would have doubtless carried out his plans and would have polled for himself about 3,000 votes, while I should not have got one, for respectable people would have been afraid to go out of their houses. O'Brien struck Croker first and was knocked down in turn, after which the fight became somewhat general and the people on the outside began firing. The loss of McKenna's life is due entirely to the illegal and brutal conduct of O'Brien, who tried to introduce Communistic principles into this district, but was happily prevented. The first action of the democratic municipal government should be to investigate the Police Commission and depose the Commissioners.

THE FINANCIAL QUESTION.

Turning the conversation at this point, Mr. Hewitt, in answer to several queries addressed to him, said:—"I have no doubt but that the policy of the democratic party will be to establish a return to specie payment, but the question cannot come up for some considerable time, and in fact I do not think it will be acted on until after the next Presidential election. It is a matter that at present gives rise to a variety of opinions, and it may resolve itself into a question of geographical position as the people in the East want one thing and the people in the West something else. I do not think it will be a question on which party lines will be strictly drawn. I do think, however, that during the next two years the people will have the matter so laid before them, discussed and explained by experienced and able men, as to bring about a decided expression of opinion as to what will be the most desirable action to take."

GRANT DISPOSED OF.

In reference to General Grant's chances Mr. Hewitt said, "The victories we have scored clearly dispose of Grant and any probability of his seeking a third term, and I feel confident he will retire into private life. Who our candidate will be is uncertain, but either Hendricks or ex-Governor Seymour would be a good man. The latter will be, I think, the United States Senator who will be elected by the Legislature in place of Reuben E. Fenton, for we have clearly a working majority in the Assembly, as we shall have also in the next Congress."

CITY AND FEDERAL OFFICIALS.

The few politicians who were to be seen at the City Hall yesterday were of the democratic party, and it was pardonable in them to be highly exhilarated with the joys of victory. The canvass was the only topic of conversation to the exclusion of everything else. Very few republicans, if any, could be found in the corridors. The smoke of the battle had not yet cleared away, consequently the vultures kept off, and will not assemble until the exact result of the campaign, as far as the new city fathers are concerned, is fully known.

Not even an estimate had been made yesterday as to the partisan appearance of the new Board of Aldermen elected. Alderman John J. Morris, who has been so generally popular in the present Board, as well as the genial Alderman Edward Gilon, Colonel of the gallant Fifty-fifth regiment N.G.S.N.Y., have been returned from the Fifth Senatorial district. Alderman Riley, also an old and respected member of the present Board, comes back with his actions as an Alderman indorsed by his constituents. His colleague is Mr. Joseph P. Strack, the present President of the Board of Assistant Aldermen. President Vance, who is well known as a member of the Board of Apportionment, is likewise re-elected. So, also, is Alderman Oliver P. C. Billings. These are all of the old members returned.

Mayor Havemeyer says very little about the election. He seems to evince neither elation at the democratic "tidal wave" nor regret at the republican "Waterloo." His Honor, however, as far back as last August, predicted the defeat of General Dix and the republican State ticket, and on this he seemed rather to pride himself.

The election returns, which are required by law to be handed in to the Board of Supervisors and County Clerk, as also to the Mayor, came in pretty rapidly. Mr. D. C. Wendell, the Mayor's Chief Clerk, receipted for about 400 yesterday; about 175 more are to come in.

The feeling in the federal offices on account of the election may well be imagined. Despondency, if not absolutely admitted, is at least apparent in the sickly smile of the officials when conversing upon the late canvass. Very little is said upon the subject, except philosophic expressions of "Well, we have been badly beaten, and there is no immediate help for it."

The defeat of Mr. John D. Lawson and Mr. Isaac H. Bailey, both Congressional candidates in what were supposed to be republican strongholds, and of Bernard Biglin in the Eighteenth, William S. Murray in the Fifteenth and Solon Smith in the Eighth Assembly district as members of the Assembly; but especially the defeat of Charles Blackie in the Thirteenth district astonishes their partisans. But the federal officials console themselves with the motto of Jacob Faithful, "Better luck next time."

AMONG THE PUBLISHERS.

The Fall Campaign—A Splendid List—Novels by New and Old Authors—Music and Disease—History, Biography, Theology, Holiday Literature and the Magazines.

The New York publishers have entered upon their fall trade with characteristic pluck and enterprise. Judging from the rich and varied list (obtained from the principal houses) which we present below, the "hard times" have had little effect upon the publishers, unless, possibly, to confine them, in the main, to a more substantial and thoroughly legitimate class of works.

BAKER—"GUY LIVINGSTONE"—NORDHOFF.

Harper & Brothers evidently have no fear of a dull season, for they come into the field loaded down with every variety of literature. Perhaps the most important book on their list is "Ismailia," a narrative of the expedition to Central Africa for the suppression of the slave trade, organized by Ismail, Khédive of Egypt, by Sir Samuel Baker, F. R. G. S., &c., &c., with maps and more than fifty full-page illustrations. Another book of African discovery will be the "Last Journals of Dr. Livingstone and the Narration of His Expedition," by Sir Samuel Baker. The papers of Dr. Livingstone, including those confided by him to Mr. Stanley, will be edited by the Rev. Horace Waller, a personal friend, who spent much time with the Doctor in Africa. Harper & Brothers will also issue the following:—"David, King of Israel," by the Rev. William M. Taylor, of the Broadway Tabernacle; "Politics for Young Americans," by Charles Nordhoff; "Bible Customs of Bible Lands," by the Rev. H. J. Van Lennep, with over two hundred illustrations; "The Communistic Societies of the United States," by Charles Nordhoff. This book will be one of unusual interest, as it will contain a sketch of every "community" in the United States, from Oneida to Salt Lake City. "Remains of Lost Empires," by P. V. N. Myers, with illustrations; "Nursery Noonings," one of Gail Hamilton's piquant productions, and "Our Next Door Neighbor—a winter in Mexico," by the Rev. Bishop Gilbert Haven, D. D.

By way of lighter reading they will publish "The Little Lame Prince," by the author of "John Halifax;" and new novels by the author of "Guy Livingstone" (who has been silent for three years), by the author of "St. Olaves," by Frank Lee Benedict, by B. L. Farjeon, Mrs. Eiloart, Miss Havers and Charity Gibbon.

HOLLAND—SAINTINE—STANLEY.

Scribner, Armstrong & Co. are busy sending out Dr. Holland's new poem, "The Mistress of the Manse," and Jules Verne's new book, "The Mysterious Island." "The Mistress of the Manse" has already reached its fourteenth thousand, and promises to rival "Bitter Sweet" and "Kathrina" in popularity. The rage for Jules Verne is something astonishing, though not more astonishing, perhaps, than the author's untiring industry and fertility of invention. In order to recommend this latest work of his—or this half of it, for the story will be still further continued in Scribner's Monthly—we need only mention that one of its heroes is a reporter for the NEW YORK HERALD. This firm have on the list some important works for the holidays, principal among which are Paul Marcoy's "Travels Across South America," in two large volumes, containing 500 engravings, maps, &c., and Saintine's "Myths of the Rhine," with 150 designs by Doré, a book as witty in style as it is amusing in illustration. Doré fairly revels in the grotesque subjects afforded by the letter press. It is strange that American publishers should be, as we understand is the case, the first to procure a translation in English of a book by so celebrated a writer as the author of "Picciola." From the same publishers we have, or are to have, a new and cheaper edition of Stanley's "How I Found Livingstone," with a further chapter giving a sketch of Dr. Livingstone's entire career, and bringing down the record to the time of his death; a new and cheaper edition of Stockton's capital "Round About Rambles;" a volume of Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge's "Rhymes and Jingles" (now first collected), than which of their kind there is nothing brighter, more hearty, more wholesome or more popular among the little folk themselves; a fourth bric-a-brac book, very much like the first in character of contents; "Explorations in Nineveh, Assyria and Babylonia," by Mr. George Smith, of the British Museum, illustrated; another story by Erckmann-Chatrian, called "Maître Mablot," and sketching college life in France; Rev. Dr. Hurst's "Life and Literature in the Fatherland," and Eugene Schuyler's "Notes of a Journey in the Russian Provinces of Turkestan, the Khanates of Khokan and Bokara, and Provinces of Kuldja."

Among the more solid works of Scribner, Armstrong & Co. are Curtius' "History of Greece" (the fifth volume); volumes two and three of Froude's much criticized "History of Ireland," a new edition of Minister Marsh's noble work, under the title of "The Earth as Modified by Human Action;" Van Oosterzee's "Christian Dogmatics," additional volumes in the handy series of "Epochs of History," Torrey's "Theory of Fine Art," Murray's "Manual of Mythology," the fifth volume of "The Speaker's Commentary," on Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Daniel; "The Paraclete," by an author whose name is not given; a new volume by Professor Whitney, the volume on "Job," in "Lange's Commentary;" "God in Human Thought," and "The Moral System," by Dr. Gillett.

MOLESWORTH—MEYER—TYNDALL.

The house of Scribner, Welford & Armstrong, a branch of the above, import all their books from England. Just before the holidays they get together a gorgeous collection of foreign illustrated books of all sorts and prices. Just now their announcements are principally of more matter of fact and substantial literature, such as D'Anvers' "Elementary History of Art," being an introduction to ancient and modern architecture, sculpture, painting and music, profusely illustrated; a "History of England," from 1830 to within the last two or three years, by Rev. Mr. Molesworth, and strongly recommended by his neighbor, Mr. John Bright. Meyer's "Commentary on the New Testament," the revised edition of Tyndall's recent "Address," and "Astronomy Simplified for General Reading," by J. A. S. Rollwyn.

HARDY—WAGNER—MILL.

A tempting array of new books is offered by Henry Holt & Co. As a rule the fall and winter publications of this house are of the solid kind, only three novels and one volume of light poetry appearing in the list. Most conspicuous among the novels is Thomas Hardy's "Far from the Madding Crowd," which appeared serially in Every Saturday and is still running through Littell's Living Age, into which Every Saturday was lately merged. Before the name of the author of this novel became known the London Spectator said:—"If this is not an anonymous work by George Eliot a new star has arisen in the literary firmament." Mr. Holt received the last instalment of this novel the other day, and it will be issued in book form before it has run its course through Littell. Mrs. Alexander, who wrote that delightful novel of the Leisure Hour Series, "The Wooing O't," will have a new story ready for the public this winter. The author of "My Little Lady" will also bring out a new novel, which will appear in the above series. For the holidays this firm has in store a volume of "Vers de Société," from the pens of Thackeray, Hood, Holmes, Frederick Locker, Austin Dobson and others, which will be illustrated with delicate and appropriate designs by John A. Mitchell. This book is to be a perfect marvel of the printer's art, and the designs for the cover and title page are rich in cupids and flowers. Among the solid books are three additional volumes of Freeman's Historical course, now in press. Freeman, it will be remembered, is the rival or adversary of Froude. His books are in the style of the modern scientific historian. The present series is well suited for use in schools. During the coming month this firm will bring out a book of "Modern African Exploration," edited by C. H. Jones, which will be a résumé of the discoveries and adventures of all the explorers. Sir Henry Maine's latest work, "Early History of Institutions," which will prove as much of a standard as the same author's "Ancient Law," will soon be out. The plates of John Stuart Mill's posthumous work, "Three Essays on Religion: the Utility of Religion, Theism and Nature," have arrived in New York, and are at the present time lying in the Custom House. This book is edited by Mill's niece, Miss Helen Taylor. A selection from Sainte-Beuve's "Causeries du Lundi," translated by W. F. Rae, will appear this fall, as will also the "History and Practice of the Fine Arts," by W. B. Scott. A new edition of Taine's "Tour Through the Pyrenees," illustrated by Gustave Doré, will be among the holiday books. Mr. Holt published an edition of this book last year, the whole of which was exhausted ten days before Christmas. Perhaps the most interesting of this firm's announcements to the general ready is that of the "Autobiography of Richard Wagner, with Selections from His Essays." Mr. Edward Burlingame, son of the late Minister to China, has made the translation of this book. Mr. Burlingame is a good German scholar and a hard working literary man. Wagner's writings, like his music, are altogether original. In style he reminds one of Heinrich Heine; not so much of an artist, perhaps, but quite as impudent. The present Wagner excitement in this country makes the publication of this book particularly timely.

CHOMET—HAWTHORNE—IRVING.

Dr. H. Chomet's singular book, "The Effects and Influence of Music on Health and Disease," which made quite an excitement when first published in France, is among the fall announcements of G. P. Putnam's Sons. M. Chomet has a theory, for which he fights with true French audacity, that music is the life-giving tonic. The effect of music upon the spirits is well known; for example, the fife and drum to the despairing soldier. Dr. Taylor, Weston's physician, appreciated the effect of music as a therapeutic agent; for, whenever he saw that his patient looked weary he signalled the band in the ring to play. A few notes of an inspiring march put more life into the tired pedestrian than could any amount of beef tea and cold coffee. M. Chomet will find it a difficult task to win over disciples to his theories, which, notwithstanding their extravagance, have an air of sincerity that commands our attention. G. P. Putnam's Sons further announce the following for early publication:—As holiday books they offer an elaborately gotten-up volume of Bryant's familiar poem, "Among the Trees," with numerous illustrations by Jervis McEntee, and a volume of "Notes on England and Italy," by Mrs. Hawthorne, wife of the great romancer, to be illustrated with a profusion of steel prints. "Geometry and Faith" is the singularly mathematical and theological title of a forthcoming book, by the Rev. Thomas Hill, President of Harvard University. Not the least valuable of this firm's future publications are "Sophisms of Protection," by Frederic Bastiat, with a preface by Horace White; "How to Make Money," by George Cary Eggleston; "Orthopœdia and its Treatment," by James Knight, M. D., and "Winter Homes for Invalids," by Joseph W. Howe. The Putnams have resumed the publication of Washington Irving's works, the plates of which they leased to Lippincott, of Philadelphia, for five years. During that time 110,000 volumes of the gentle Irving's works were sold. It is said that this writer's heirs receive $3,000 annually as their share of the profits arising from the sale of his books.

On dit, that Bayard Taylor had intended to lecture on Iceland as well as Egypt. While visiting the former country, however, he found that Dr. I. I. Hayes was at work upon the same subject and for the same purpose, so he generously withdrew his claim to the lecture. This, fortunately, did not prevent his writing about the land of the Esquimaux. What he has had to say about those extremes of the globe, "Egypt and Iceland," has been published in a small and neatly printed volume by the Putnams.

STOCKTON—HOPKINS—DANA.

Old folks as well as children will find an entertaining volume in Mr. Frank R. Stockton's "What Might Have Been Expected." The story was greedily read while running as a serial in the St. Nicholas. This work Dodd & Mead will give to the world in book form. "Strength and Beauty," a series of discussions for young men, by President Mark Hopkins, of Williams College, will be issued in a few days by this firm, as will also a new edition of Professor Dana's "Coral and Coral Islands" and "Paul Jones," the latter in Abbott's series of "Pioneers and Patriots of America."

VERY LIGHT LITERATURE.

Carleton & Co. announced "A Terrible Secret," by May Agnes Fleming, author of several novels with equally telling titles; "Through Thick and Thin," a translation from the French of Joseph Méry, and a new story by Marion Harland, entitled "From My Youth Up." Marion Harland, who is the wife of Dr. E. P. Terhune, pastor of a Dutch Reformed church over in Newark, N. J., has just recovered from a severe sickness, since which she has written the novel just named, which will appear in November.

CUSTER—EDWARDS—FISH.

The series of papers by General Custer, entitled "My Life on the Plains," that has been running in the Galaxy as far back as we can remember, have been collected and issued in book form by Sheldon & Co. General Custer is a good writer as well as fighter, and his records of the daily incidents of a life on the plains are exciting enough. A new novel, by Mrs. Annie E. Edwards, called "Estelle," will be ready about the middle of November. Mrs. Edwards is a pleasant story writer and always commands a large audience. The same firm will bring out shortly a new edition, in cheap form for popular use, of "Heaven in Song," edited by Rev. Dr. Fish. Dr. Fish, by the way, has just returned from an extended tour through Palestine, where he visited every point of interest from Dan to Beersheba.

EGGLESTON—AMES.

Hurd & Houghton, who are Boston as well as New York publishers, are paying attention now principally to law books. Mr. Hurd thinks that miscellaneous publications do not pay as they used to, and, further, that the subscription book publishers snap up a writer the moment he gets a name. They will, however, bring out a few miscellaneous books this winter, among them "A Rebel's Recollections," by George Cary Eggleston, which ran serially through the Atlantic Monthly. Mr. Eggleston, who is a brother of the author of the "Hoosier Schoolmaster," was an officer in the Confederate army, and was for some time connected with the Brooklyn Union, succeeded Edward Eggleston as editor of Hearth and Home, and now has become the editor of American Homes. "His Two Wives," by Mary Clemmer Ames, her publishers call an "intense" novel, whatever that may mean. It appeared originally in Every Saturday. Hurd & Houghton will also publish "Public Health," a volume of reports and papers contributed by members of the Public Health Association; and "Benjamin on Sales," edited with special reference to American decisions.

HUBNER—BLACKBURNE—LIECHTENSTEIN.

Macmillan & Co., whose American branch is well known in New York, have the following books in press:—"A Ramble Round the World," by Baron de Hübner, translated by Lady Herbert. A tour through America will occupy a large part of this volume. Baron Hübner visited all the points of interest from New York to San Francisco; from thence he crossed over into Japan, thence to China and home. Then follow in rapid succession "The Biography of Right Honorable Francis Blackburne," by Edward Blackburne; "Russia and the Central Asian Question," by Ashton Dilke; a "History of the English," by the Rev. J. R. Green; a "History of Holland House," by Princess Marie Liechtenstein, to be gotten up in elegant style; a "History of Greece," by W. Watkyss Lloyd; "Reminiscences and Diary of W. R. Macready," edited by Sir Frederick Pollock; "Social Greece," by J. P. Mahaffy; Michelet's "History of the Nineteenth Century," translated and continued to the present time by Mrs. Simpson; a "History of the Drama," by Prof. A. W. Ward, of Owens College, Manchester. In physical and mental science MacMillan & Co. will publish "Cave Hunting," researches on the evidence of caves respecting the early inhabitants of Europe, by W. Boyd Dawkins; "Elementary Lessons in Physical Science," by Archibald Geikie; the "Common Frog," by St. George Mivart, and "The Transit of Venus," by Professor George Forbes. In the way of theology they will issue Père Hyacinthe's "Catholic Reform," translated by Mme. Loyson-Hyacinthe and "De Imitatione Christi," translated from Thomas a Kempis, by Rev. W. Benham. Among the miscellaneous books will be Lady Duff Gordon's last letters from Egypt, to which are added letters from the Cape, and a memoir by her sister, and "Michael Angelo," by C. C. Black, M. A., making in all a most substantial and attractive list.

DRAPER—SPENCER—BROOKE.

The new works in course of publication by D. Appleton & Co. embrace a long list and a great variety of subjects. There is but one novel in the lot and that is "My Story," by Mrs. Macquoid, author of "Patty." The following are in the International Scientific series:—"Animal Mechanism," by Professor C. J. Marey, of the College of France; "History of the Conflict between Religion and Science," by Dr. John W. Draper, which will undoubtedly create a sensation among thinking people; "The Theory of Descent," by Professor Oscar Schmidt, of the University of Strasbourg, and "Optics," by Professor Soumel, of the University of Erlangen. In the miscellaneous department the principal announcements are:—"A Brief History of Culture," by John S. Hittell; a "Life of Columbus," by A. Goodrich; "The Native Races of the Pacific States of North America," by H. H. Bancroft, which will appear in five volumes; "The Principles of Sociology," by Herbert Spencer, to be issued in numbers; "The Theology of the English Poets," by Rev. Stopford A. Brooke; "The Life and Unpublished Works of Samuel Lover," by Boyle Bernard, and "The Natural History of Man," by Professor Quatrefages, translated by Miss Youmans. Then there are a number of text books, one of which is a "School History of Germany," by Bayard Taylor. Of medical works there are two, "The Breath," by Dr. J. E. Howe, and "The Diseases of Children," by Dr. John Steiner. The illustrated books are "Military and Religious Life in the Middle Ages and at the Period of the Renaissance," by Paul Lacroix; "The Amazon and Madeira Rivers," by Franz Keller; "Whispers from Fairy Land," by E. H. Knatchbull; Hugessen & Ernest Griset's "Funny Picture Book."

The Appletons also announce a few important books to be sold by subscription only. They are:—"The Life of Samuel F. B. Morse," by S. Irenæus Prime; "Personal Reminiscences, Anecdotes and Letters of General Robert E. Lee," by the Rev. J. W. Jones, D. D.; a volume of "Picturesque Europe," uniform with "Picturesque America," and the "American Cyclopœdia," the eighth volume of which has just been published.

AMERICAN GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY.

President Daly's Geographical Labors Abroad.

Chief Justice Daly, in returning to the country, brings with him a large fund of geographical matter pertaining to the labors of European explorers. His distinguished reception by the scientific and travelled men of Europe gave to his journey an importance which will long be felt in geographical circles and which will, undoubtedly, largely contribute to the success of the projected enterprises of exploration in the Arctic regions, Africa, the far East and our own great West.

DEERFOOT PARK.

First Day of the Third Fall Trotting Meeting—The 3:20 and 2:35 Races Commenced, but Not Decided.

The third fall trotting meeting at Deerfoot Park commenced under very favorable circumstances yesterday afternoon. The track was in good condition, the weather pleasant and the attendance quite respectable. There were two events on the cards—purse of $200 for 3:20 horses and purse of $300 for 2:35 horses—but neither was finished, four heats being trotted in the former and three in the latter. In the 3:20 contest there started J. Wilson's brown mare Maud, John Murphy's roan mare Lady Collyer, H. W. Howe's gray gelding Henry Miller, T. Lee's bay gelding Judge Bedle, J. Carroll's brown mare Little Nell, A. Bourrett's roan gelding T. E. Gordon, E. H. Heard's bay gelding Pat Maloy, L. E. Sifkins' brown gelding Johnny and D. B. Goff's brown mare Addie Goff. Gordon was the favorite in the pools, with Collyer next choice, the average being Gordon $25, Collyer $7, field $10. Collyer won the first and fourth heats, Gordon the second and Bedle the third, when the race was postponed until one o'clock to-day.

The 2:35 race had six entries and starters—G. F. Harris' bay mare Linnie Case, W. S. Thoms' brown gelding Phil O'Neil, Jr., H. W. Howe's brown gelding Prince, John Murphy's bay gelding Matt Tanner, S. Coon's brown mare Mollie Barker and E. H. Heard's gray gelding Pollock. The first pools were:—Tanner, $10; Prince, $7; field, $17. Then Case became a big favorite, selling as follows:—Case, $40; Tanner, $24; field, $20. The first was a dead heat between Pollock and Prince, when the latter went off and won the second and third, the race then being postponed until to-day.

TROTTING AT PHILADELPHIA.

First Day of the Fall Meeting at Point Breeze—Two Spirited Contests—Honest Mac the Winner of the Three Minute Trot, Royal George of the 2:29 Purse.

The fall meeting at Point Breeze Park began yesterday and was largely attended. Two trotting contests were on the card, the first being for horses that had never beaten three minutes, the second for horses that had never trotted better than 2:29. There were nine entries for the first, eight of which came to the post. These were T. R. Cline's sorrel gelding Honest Mac, A. W. Strand's bay mare Katy S., Dan Mace's bay mare Maude, J. K. Leavitt's bay mare Lady Goodin, F. J. Nodine's bay gelding Hampton, T. Newman's bay mare Sallie B., J. McHugh's black mare Maggie M., and T. McClosky's gray gelding Jim. Honest Mac was the favorite over the field. He won the race in three straight heats, showing a great turn of speed at times.

The second race had six entries, and they all came to the post. These were Isaac Woodruff's gray gelding Royal George, W. H. Doble's gray gelding Snowball, W. H. Crawford's bay mare Annie Collins, Dan Mace's black gelding Arthur, Silas Wright's bay mare Lizzie Keller, and J. H. Phillip's bay mare Adelaide. Snowball was a great favorite, selling in the pools for as much as all the others combined. He never won a heat. The race was won by Royal George, who won the first, third and fourth heats, Annie Collins taking the second heat.

The following are the details of the trotting as it progressed:—

The First Trot.

First Heat.—Honest Mac was the favorite, Maude second choice, the field bringing about as much as Maude. After a long time spent in scoring the word was given to a straggling start, Hampton leading, Sallie B. second, Katy S. third, Jim fourth, Maude fifth, Maggie M. sixth, Lady Goodin seventh, Honest Mac eighth. At the quarter pole Hampton led half a length, Katy S. second, Maggie M. third, Maude fourth, Lady Goodin fifth, Jim sixth, Sallie B. seventh, Honest Mac eighth. Time, 39½ seconds. At the half-mile pole, which was passed in 1:18, Katy S. still showed the way, Maude second, Hampton third, Maggie M. fourth, Honest Mac fifth, Lady Goodin sixth, Jim seventh, Sallie B. eighth. Honest Mac then went with a rush and he passed all the horses as if they stood still, leading four lengths to the three-quarter pole. He came home on a jog in 2:34½, Maude second, Katy S. third, Hampton fourth, Lady Goodin fifth, Maggie M. sixth, Jim seventh, Sallie B. eighth.

Second Heat.—There was no more betting on this race, as Mac's exhibition of speed between the half and three-quarter poles in the previous heat convinced the spectators that none of the horses in the race had the ghost of a chance with him. Honest Mac took the lead, and was six lengths in advance of Katy B. at the quarter pole, Maggie M. third, Maude fourth, Lady Goodin fifth, Hampton sixth, Jim seventh, Sallie B. eighth. Time, 38 seconds. Honest Mac was eight lengths in front of Katy B., Maude third, Maggie M. fourth, Lady Goodin fifth, Hampton sixth, Sallie B. seventh, Jim eighth. At the half mile pole in 1:17. Honest Mac came along leisurely and won the heat on a jog by three lengths in 2:37½, Katy S. second, Lady Goodin third, Hampton fourth, Sallie B. fifth, Maude sixth, Maggie M. seventh, Jim eighth.

Third Heat.—Katy S. had the best of the send off, Maude second, Maggie M. third, Lady Goodin fourth, Honest Mac fifth, Hampton sixth, Sallie B. seventh, Jim eighth. At the quarter pole, which was passed in 39½ seconds, Katy S. led two lengths, Lady Goodin second, Maude third, Honest Mac fourth, Maggie M. fifth, Hampton sixth, Jim seventh, Sallie B. eighth. Honest Mac passed the horses in front of him on the backstretch, and led two lengths at the half mile pole in 1:18. Katy S. trotted after Honest Mac, and came very near overtaking him on the homestretch, as he only won the heat by a length under the whip, Lady Goodin third, Maude fourth, Hampton fifth, Sallie B. sixth, Maggie M. seventh, Jim eighth. Time of the heat, 2:34. Katy S. won second money, Maude the third prize, and Lady Goodin the fourth premium. The following is a

The Second Trot.

First Heat.—Snowball was the favorite at slight odds, Royal George the second choice, and then the field for about the same amount as the second choice brought. Lizzie Keller was away first, Snowball second, Royal George third, Annie Collins fourth, Adelaide fifth, Arthur sixth on a break. Lizzie Keller led one length at the quarter pole, Snowball second, Royal George third, Adelaide fourth, Annie Collins fifth, Arthur far behind. Time, 35½ seconds. The half-mile pole was passed by Snowball first by two lengths, Lizzie Keller second, on a break, Royal George third, Adelaide fourth, Annie Collins fifth, Arthur sixth. Time, 1:12. Royal George then gradually gained on Snowball, and at the entrance to the homestretch he was at his wheel. George then closed up and passed Snowball at the distance stand, winning the heat by two lengths. Annie Collins was third, Lizzie Keller fourth, Arthur fifth, Adelaide sixth. Time of the heat 2:26½.

Second Heat.—Royal George was then the favorite over the field. He had the best of the start, but broke up on the turn and fell into third place, Snowball taking the lead, followed by Annie Collins. At the quarter pole, which was passed in 37½ seconds, Snowball led one length, Annie Collins two lengths in front of Royal George, Lizzie Keller fourth, Adelaide fifth, Arthur sixth. Snowball broke up on the backstretch, and Annie Collins passed the post in 1:15½, one length in front of Royal George, Snowball third, Lizzie Keller fourth, Adelaide fifth, Arthur sixth. Annie Collins kept in front to the three-quarter pole, passing that point a neck in front of Royal George, Snowball fourth, Adelaide fifth, Arthur sixth. The struggle up the homestretch was very close between Royal George and Annie Collins, but when close to the stand Royal George broke up, and the two passed the judges' stand head and head. The judges gave the heat to Annie Collins, who trotted over the score. Snowball came in third, Lizzie Keller fourth, Adelaide fifth. Time of the heat, 2:31.

Third Heat.—Annie Collins sold for $50, the field for $40. Adelaide had the best of the start, Royal George second, Snowball third, Arthur fourth, Annie Collins fifth and Lizzy Keller sixth. Royal George went to the front on the turn and led one length to the quarter pole in 38 seconds, Snowball second, two lengths in front of Annie Collins; Arthur fourth, Adelaide fifth, Lizzie Keller sixth. Snowball closed up on the backstretch and showed his nose in front at the half-mile pole in 1:15, Royal George second, Lizzie Keller third, Arthur fourth, Annie Collins fifth, Adelaide sixth. Royal George and Snowball trotted yoked to the three-quarter pole, but just as they reached that point Royal George broke up, and soon afterward Snowball followed suit, and then Arthur went to the front. The old grays soon recovered and put after Arthur, and a very exciting struggle took place up the homestretch, Royal George winning by a head, Arthur two lengths in advance of Snowball, Annie Collins fourth, Lizzie Keller fifth, Adelaide sixth. Time, 2:30½.

Fourth Heat.—Royal George sold at even money against the field. George had a trifle the best of the send off, Snowball second, Adelaide third, Annie Collins fourth, Arthur fifth and Lizzie Keller sixth. At the quarter pole, which was passed in 38½ seconds, Snowball and Royal George were head and head, Annie Collins third, the others close up. The two grays kept together to the half-mile pole and passed that point yoked in 1:15½. It was impossible at this time to distinguish accurately the dark colored horses on account of darkness. The grays kept in front to the three-quarter pole nearly parallel, and they entered the homestretch in that way, and coming on Royal George won the heat by a length in 2:30, Snowball second, Arthur close up third, Annie Collins fourth, Adelaide fifth, Lizzie Keller sixth. Annie Collins won second money, Snowball the third premium and Arthur the fourth. The following is a

TROTTING AT WHITE PLAINS.

The well known horses Berkshire Boy, Bonner and Molsey trotted yesterday over the Westchester County Fair Grounds, at White Plains, for a purse of $500. Before the start Molsey had the call, but the attendance being light there was but little betting, those present being vastly more interested in one of those robbing "keno" games that are now to be found on nearly all trotting tracks. The trotting was begun so late that it was dark before it could be finished, the race being postponed until to-day, with two heats to the credit of Bonner, one to Molsey and one to Berkshire Boy, Molsey and the Boy with a dead heat between them.

First Heat.—At the second score the word was given with Molsey leading on the outside, Bonner having the pole. Rounding the turn Molsey took the pole, which he kept, leading three lengths at the quarter in 38 seconds and two at the half in 1:17. Going down the backstretch Bonner gained somewhat, but making a slight break in the lower turn he lost what he gained, Molsey coming away and winning the heat by two lengths in 2:33½. Bonner second, four lengths in front of Berkshire Boy, who had been very unsteady all through the heat.

Second Heat.—The field had the call over any named horse at even figures. Getting away on even terms Molsey took the lead, followed by Bonner and the Boy, who continued to break badly, Molsey leading a length and a half at the quarter in 38 seconds. Rounding the turn both Bonner and Berkshire Boy closed up on Molsey very fast, and would no doubt have beat her to the half. Both breaking, Molsey led at the half two lengths, in 1:16. Bonner continued on a jump round the turn, Berkshire Boy taking second place and trotting very fast was only a length behind the mare at the three-quarter pole. Keeping well on he headed her at the distance, but breaking badly he fell back. Coming again he went up to the mare, the pair passing the stand so even that the verdict was a dead heat in 2:34, Bonner six lengths away.

Third Heat.—No betting. Again they were sent away on even terms, Molsey at once taking the lead, closely pressed by the Boy, the mare leading a head at the quarter in 38 seconds. The struggle from thence to the finish of the heat was a very close and good one, Molsey holding her lead by a head at the half in 1:17. Berkshire Boy, breaking several times, finally took the lead on the stretch, winning the heat by a length in 2:34½, with Molsey second, three lengths in front of Bonner, who had come very fast at the finish, but broke badly just at the wire.

Fourth Heat.—At the second score the word was given to a bad start, Bonner on the outside getting the best of it by two lengths, which gave him the pole in the turn, he trotting to the quarter in 38 seconds, to the half in 1:15, and the mile in 2:32½ without a break, Molsey beating Berkshire Boy for second place.

Fifth Heat.—At the word for the fifth heat Bonner went away with the lead, trotting to the quarter in 37 seconds, with Molsey second, three lengths behind, and two in front of the Berkshire Boy. Bonner kept his lead easy, going to the half in 1:16, and winning the heat by two lengths in 2:33, Molsey second, several lengths in front of Berkshire Boy. It being then so dark as to render the further continuation of the race unsafe, the final heats were postponed until to-day at two P. M., at which hour a trot for horses that have never beaten 2:32 will be called.

MISS CUSHMAN'S FAREWELL.

The Laurel Crown from the Arcadian Club—Interesting Reminiscences of the Stage—The Retirement of Siddons, King and Macready.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

It was a happy thought of Mr. Algernon S. Sullivan, of the Arcadian Club, the crowning with laurel of Miss Cushman on her retirement from the stage she has so long honored and adorned; and the occasion of the presentation of this wreath by the gentlemen of Arcadia cannot fail to be most interesting and memorable. Certainly we have never uttered our farewell to any artist in her profession with more sincere regret; and no actress who has ever left our boards has been more worthy personally and professionally of such an honor.

The testimonial and the manner of its presentation is unique in dramatic history and without precedent in the annals of our own stage. It is a coincidence, and a very pleasant and remarkable one, however, that England's greatest tragic actress should have taken her farewell of the stage in the same great character and under many similar circumstances. On the 29th of June, 1812, Mrs. Siddons made her last appearance and played Lady Macbeth. The crowd at the theatre, we are told, was immense. At the sleep walking scene the excitement was so great that the audience stood on the benches and demanded that the performance should end with that scene. The curtain was then dropped for twenty minutes, and when it rose Mrs. Siddons was discovered at a table dressed in white. She came forward amid a perfect thunderstorm of applause, which endured many moments. Silence being obtained, she recited an address, toward the conclusion of which it is said she exhibited deep emotion. The closing lines were:—

Judges and friends, to whom the magic strain
Of nature's feelings never spoke in vain,
Perhaps your hearts, when years have glided by,
And past emotions wake a fleeting sigh,
May think on her whose lips have poured so long
The charmed sorrows of your Shakespeare's song;
On her who, parting to return no more,
Is now the mourner she but seemed before;
Herself subdued, resigns the melting spell,
And breathes, with swelling heart, her long, her last farewell.

Words like these Miss Cushman, no doubt, from her own swelling heart, will utter before us on Saturday night.

Mr. King, the original Sir Peter Teazle, in Sheridan's "School for Scandal," took his farewell of the stage in the part of Sir Peter, a part which it was affectionately said died with him, at Drury Lane, May 24, 1802. With trembling lips and faltering voice he delivered an address written by Cumberland, of which the following lines are part:—

Patrons, farewell!
Though you still kindly my defects may spare
Constant indulgence who would wish to bear?
Who that retains the sense of brighter days,
Can sue for pardon while he pants for praise?
On well-earned fame the mind with pride reflects,
And pity sinks the man whom it protects.
Your fathers had my strength, my only claim
Was zeal, their favor was my only fame.

Amid shouts of applause the venerable man, it is recorded, retired to the greenroom where an affectionate compliment awaited him from his dramatic brethren, in the shape of a handsome silver cup with an engraved motto from "Henry V.," happily adapted to the occasion:—

If he be not fellow with the best king, thou shalt find the best king of good fellows.

From this cup his health was drunk, and he returned the compliment almost overpowered by the intensity of his feelings.

The occasion of the final retirement of Mr. Macready from the stage at the Haymarket, in London, in 1851, is still remembered. He played "Macbeth," and those who witnessed the performance state that the tragedian never could have been greater than on this touching occasion. After the play had ended Mr. Macready, dressed in black clothes, came before the curtain and addressed the enormous assemblage in sad words of farewell which we have not space to quote here. Tennyson's well known lines, however, we cannot resist repeating, expressing so feelingly, as we are satisfied they do, the affectionate and honorable regard felt in New York to-day for Miss Cushman, to whom, if slightly paraphrased, they would so aptly apply:—

Farewell, Macready, since to-night we part.
Full handed thunders often have confest
Thy power, well used to move the public breast.
We thank thee with one voice, and from the heart.
Farewell, Macready, since this night we part.
Go! take thine honors home: rank with the best,
Garrick, and statelier Kemble, and the rest
Who made a nation purer thro' their art.
Thine is it that our drama did not die
Nor flicker down to brainless pantomime,
And those gilt gauds men-children swarm to see.
Farewell, Macready; moral, grave, sublime,
Our Shakespeare's bland and universal eye
Dwells pleased, thro' twice an hundred years, on thee.

Instructed by the committee he yesterday sent to Mrs. Smith a sight draft for £464 13s. 8d., being the gold proceeds of $2,500, leaving in his hands $104 22, currency, subject to future drafts, when a few small outstanding bills have been paid.

SAFE BURGLARY TRIAL.

Examination of the Telegraph Employes—The Original Telegraph Messages Introduced in Court—Interesting Developments—The Jury Visit the Scene of the Burglary.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4, 1874.

In the Criminal Court to-day the trial of the alleged safe burglary conspirators was resumed. Mrs. E. Z. Brailey was sworn and identified the copies of affidavits of Benton and Hayes before the committee, which she had made from the short hand notes. These were introduced. Mr. E. Z. Brailey testified that he is a short hand reporter and made the report of the investigating committee. He had handed the original affidavits to Mr. Colby, the clerk of the committee, by direction of Senator Allison. In answer to a query he stated that Mr. Colby had started for California. The Judge said the original papers must be produced or their absence accounted for, and that an effort must be made to find the whereabouts of Colby either by searching the city for him or telegraphing for him. A message was despatched to Colby's residence in this city to bring in Dr. Dexter to tell what he knew about Colby's whereabouts.

Leonard Whitney sworn—He is manager of the Western Union Telegraph office in Washington; witness was requested to produce the original telegraph messages which the Court had subpœned to bring into court; witness produced a package, and said they were the original despatches received at the office in this city and sent away over the wires; witness also produced telegrams which had been received in New York and also the receipt book for the messages received in Washington; witness said the subpœna did not call for the original telegrams received in Washington; but he had them with him, and if it was proper to produce them under the subpœna, as it read, he would do so.

Judge Humphreys—You are subpœnaed now.

The telegrams were produced.

Cross-examined by Mr. Davidge—Witness allowed copies of despatches concerning government business to be taken on the orders of heads of departments and by order of the superintendent of the telegraph company; witness received an order from Mr. Orton to allow copies of such despatches which had passed through the office from March 1 to September 1 to be taken; witness had no objection to produce the order of Mr. Orton, but would prefer to do so under a subpœna; Mr. Davidge had the subpœna issued, and witness was told to produce the order of Mr. Orton. Witness said Mr. Madge was allowed to examine and take copies of the despatches; so was Mr. Riddle.

By Mr. Riddie—Some officials of the Telegraph Company selected the despatches and only allowed copies of such as they selected to be taken.

By Mr. Davidge—The rule of the company was to consider all dispatches charged up to the government and paid for as government despatches.

Charles Shivles sworn—Is a telegraph operator in New York; witness produced the original messages sent from Washington to New York, and counsel took possession of them, saying that they would assume the responsibility of their custody.

Charles A. Taylor, recalled—Identified Shailer's handwriting, the several documents presented, also several in the handwriting of J. F. W. Cunz.

John Davidson was sworn, and testified:—Was employed in Solicitor Banfield's office in the Treasury Department, and is acquainted with Shailer and J. W. F. Cunz, and their handwriting; they are employed in the Secret Service Division of the Treasury; the same papers were presented to witness and he identified the handwriting in each; Riddle explained that the papers presented were put in as the original telegrams sent from Washington to New York in relation to this affair; witness is acquainted with Whitley's signature and the handwriting of Albert Cunz; obtained his knowledge from the examination of papers in the Department; identified the papers; they were read as follows:—

FROM BANFIELD TO WHITLEY, May 18.
The government wants you to arrest Michael Hayes, to testify before the investigating committee.

A reply was sent on the 19th, requesting Banfield to send on a warrant for the arrrest.
Signed, WHITLEY.

CUNZ TO NETTLESHIP, April 1.
From New York to Washington.
Let money matters be arranged here.
FROM WHITLEY TO NETTLESHIP, NEW YORK, April 1.
Let money matters be arranged here.

Davidge objected to presenting these papers in this manner and suggested that the whole batch be submitted to the counsel for the defence, and they could examine them and decide what they would consent to allow to be admitted; otherwise a discussion might arise on the presentation of every paper and a great amount of time consumed unnecessarily. The Court then ordered a recess during which counsel might examine the papers.

Afternoon Session.

After recess, Mr. Davidge said the counsel had examined the telegrams and were willing to admit all papers signed by the parties to this contest. Those which related to what third parties had said or done, they were willing to admit if the counsel would say that hereafter they would connect them with parties to this contest. A telegram was produced, written by Shailer, dictated by Nettleship and addressed to Whitley, New York, saying:—

Your friend will be there to-morrow. State how I am to get the $200 I spoke about.

The next was from Nettleship to Whitley, saying he would be in New York next day, dated May 15; from Nettleship to Monk, requesting an interview at the Bingham House:—

Whitney recalled—Question by Davidge—Have you brought in those two orders that you were directed to bring?

Witness—I have, sir.

Mr. Davidge—Hand them over to me, sir.

Witness—May it please your Honor, I object to producing these orders, as I do not think they are in the case.

Judge Humphreys—Then don't hand them over yet.

The Judge to counsel—I have been inclined to the same opinion as witness from the first. These papers are not in this case at all as yet, and I will not require witness to produce them.

The defence noted an exception.

Mr. Riddle produced other despatches, which read:—

WASHINGTON, May 12.

Everything is lovely and the goose hangs high.
NETTLESHIP.

MAY 23.
Hon. W. B. ALLISON:—

Whitney was called upon to show that the telegrams were receipted for in the receipt-books. More telegrams were produced and read, as follows:—

W. C. Bullard, employed at the Owen House, testified to the presence of Nettleship at the Owen House in April last.

George Miller, sworn—Is a detective on the Metropolitan Police Force; recollects the occurrences of the night of April 23; was notified by Mr. Lee, the operator in the Police office, that a burglary was going on in the District Attorney's office; went up there and Major Richards placed him on watch in the rear of the office to see that no one escaped.

Mr. Riddle suggested that the jury be allowed to view the premises.

The Judge directed the Marshal to take charge of the jury and accompany them to the place for examination, first sending over some one to clear the premises, as no one had a right to be following them about there. The Judge said:—

The Deputy Marshal will precede the jury, and, Marshal Sharp, you go behind, and return the jury into Court at half past three o'clock.

When they returned the Court was adjourned till to-morrow.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Pilot Commissioners held their regular weekly meeting yesterday.

A report was made that a boulder weighing four tons had been removed from the bed of the East River near pier 10.

An insufficient attendance to form a quorum assembled yesterday at the Importers and Grocers' Board of Trade, and the advertised meeting was adjourned.

GERMAN CASE FOR SWITZERLAND AND BELGIUM.

[Berlin (October 21) Correspondence of London Telegraph.]

It is asserted in well-informed circles here that Germany, as soon as her army is organized and her western frontiers fortified, will seek by diplomatic means, information in Belgium and Switzerland as to whether these two countries are able to defend their neutrality. The motive which dictates this step is easily understood. Either Belgian or Swiss territory might serve for the passage of a French army intended to attack Germany, and as the Fatherland has acknowledged the neutrality of Switzerland, and guaranteed that of Belgium, she believes she has the right to inquire into the safety of certain indicated points.

WALL STREET, WEDNESDAY, Nov. 4—6 P. M.

It is yet too early for the average Wall street speculator to form a judgment with reference to the possible influence of the recent election upon the market. Spasmodic as the locality may be at times, it is never more cautious in making sudden moves than when it comes in contact and deals pro or con with a great popular sentiment. It is needless to say that calculations have been materially disturbed by the revolution in that public sentiment yesterday shown at the ballot boxes of the country. Men cannot tell where it will end. The details of the victory, the future public combinations, the purposes and probabilities of the incoming majority, have not been sufficiently mapped out to enable the host who discount the future to reach possible conclusions. The course of the market to-day, its dulness and decline, are not therefore to be accepted as suggestive of the influences that may be exerted upon it hereafter. From a financial point of view the rebuke to the administration is regarded as too emphatic to be idly ignored by its best friends in any section of the country. There may be a process of waiting until events more clearly shape themselves, but the undertone of the street is unquestionably favorable to a renewal of confidence and the exertion of fresh energy. Perhaps the feeling cannot better be illustrated than by quoting a telegram from a distant capitalist to a Wall street banker, received to-day:—

"The country is safe and the eagle still screams; buy me a thousand shares of ———."

When Wall street becomes animated by this inspiration we shall witness a livlier display of business, and something like a healthy recovery from the dry rot that of late has been its principal feature. Meanwhile, it will not be surprising to see even lower prices and consequent preparations to buy to the best possible advantage in expectation of an advance that may show itself between this time and the New Year.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

Cotton Active and Firmer—Flour Easy—Wheat Firmer—Corn Steady—Oats Unchanged—Pork About Steady—Lard Firmer — Groceries Dull — Freights Steady—Petroleum Quiet and Steadier — Naval Stores Dull — Whiskey Easier.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 4—6 P. M.

There was comparatively little stir in business places to-day, though in some quarters there was increased activity and a much firmer feeling. On 'Change flour was dull and in buyer's favor. Wheat was in demand and better. The demand was mainly for export, but some choice spring was taken for speculation. Corn was in disfavor and but little was done, prices remaining nominally the same. Oats were likewise steady with a fair inquiry. Whiskey was the turn easier with a fair business. Pork was nominal. Lard was firmer but quiet. Groceries were dull and unchanged, excepting for raw sugar, which ruled easier. Cotton was in better demand both for "spot" and "futures" and ruled firmer in value. Freights ruled steady under a fair inquiry for accommodation. Petroleum was dull but ruled a shade firmer. Naval stores were quiet, with strained rosin showing rather more firmness.

COFFEE.—The market was inactive for all descriptions, but values were quoted nominally steady. We heard of no transactions from first hands. The stock of Rio in the United States, according to the circular of Messrs. William Scott & Sons of this date, is as follows:—Galveston, 8,015 bags; Savannah, 3,5 0; Charleston, 5,000; New York, 7,000. Total, 23,515. We quote:—Rio, ordinary cargoes, 16¾c. a 16¾c.; fair do., 18c. a 18¾c.; good do., 19¼c. a 19½c.; prime do., 20¼c. a 20½c.; extreme range for lots, 16¾c. a 21¾c.; Java, government bags, 24c. a 26c.; do., grass mats, 25c. a 28c.; Ceylon, 17c. a 19½c.; Maracaibo, 16¾c. a 19½c.; Laguayra, 18c. a 19¾c.; Jamaica, 17c. a 19½c.; St. Domingo, 16½c. a 17c.; Porto Rico, 17½c. a 19½c.; Costa Rica, 17½c. a 19½c.; Mexican, 18c. a 19c.; Angostura, 17c. a 19c.; Savanilla, 15½c. a 19½c.; Curacoa, 16c. a 18c., gold, 60 and 90 days.

COTTON.—The market for spot cotton was fairly active, with some sales at rather better prices. "Futures" were fairly active, with some transactions at an advance of 1-16c., but this improvement was subsequently lost and the latest sales were the lowest sales of the day, the market closing at a slight decline as compared with the prices of the day previous. We quote:—

TRIPLE SHEET.

New York, Thursday, Nov. 5, 1874.

From our reports this morning the probabilities are that the weather to-day will be warmer and clear.

WALL STREET YESTERDAY.—Stocks were a trifle lower. Gold advanced to 110½ and closed at 110⅜. Money was abundant at 2½ a 3½ per cent.

OUR STATE ELECTION.—The returns which we publish this morning of our State election, Congressional and State Assembly particularly, will be found very interesting.

MR. SALEM H. WALES thinks that the third term and hard times have brought about a desire among the people for a change, and Mr. Wales is more than half right in these opinions.

THE SPANISH GUARD ON THE COAST OF CUBA is maintained with extreme vigilance. Distressed fishermen who were driven to the island by stress of weather have been arrested and placed in prison. The men claim to be American fishermen from Key West.

A TIDAL WAVE, sweeping over the country, carries everything before it, and some good ships, with the general drift, are left among the wrecks high and dry on the shore.

CHINA AND JAPAN continue to growl at each other over the bone of contention, Formosa. The men who direct the affairs of the aged empires should have better sense. They should call to mind the rules of the moral and disciplinary system of Confucius—give to each man his own, and do justice where and whenever you can.

MR. TILDEN, our Governor elect, believes that General Grant is bent upon a third term; but Mr. Tilden may now dismiss all such apprehensions.

THE NEWS FROM CENTRAL ASIA, through London by cable, is confirmatory of the report that the British power in Afghanistan is likely to be seriously disturbed by the hostile demonstration of Yakoob Khan, who is in rebellion against his father, Shere Ali. The warrior chief is demonstrating against Candahar, and a battle is imminent unless Shere Ali agrees to the exclusion of British influence from Afghanistan.

THE ARGENTINE AND FRENCH REPUBLICS are likely to be brought into difficulty by the arrest of a Patagonian King. It is a curious matter to constitute a quarrel between the democracies. The King, who claims to be a French citizen, was arrested and held on board an Argentine war vessel when on his return from Paris to Patagonia. His Majesty is a lawyer by profession; so perhaps it would be better for the Argentines, in every point of view, to let him go. He may sue them for damages in the courts and invoke hostile alliances among his crowned brethren.

MR. OSWALD OTTENDORFER is satisfied with the scalp of Hayes and with it can join in the general democratic war dance.

The Lessons of the Election—Moderation in Victory.

The canvass has not yet passed beyond its emotional phases, and it will be a few days before the heated partisans of either side will be able to read the results calmly. Upon one side we have the ecstasy of success, the realization of hopes so long deferred; land, land at last, after so many years of tumbling on the lonely seas of what seemed to be an endless opposition; upon the other we have the dismay of sudden and unexpected disaster. The democrats will exaggerate their victory, the republicans their defeat. Local, silent, indifferent causes will be found to explain the general result. The election will be attributed to what, after all, are among the incidental phases of the election. We shall be told that temperance issues in one place and side issues in another effected a movement which is political and national, which means not merely isolated dissatisfaction with the measures of the party in power, but a great change in the management of affairs. To use the familiar rhetoric of this hour of exultation and discomfiture, we have the "tidal wave" or the rising sea of success. Here and there are events which have their own especial significance, like the defeat of Mann, in Philadelphia; of Butler, in Massachusetts, and of Ellis H. Roberts, in New York. And any special importance that may attach to these results will be lost in the magnitude of the issue that was decided on Tuesday.

Above all else—and for this we fervently thank the God of Peace—there is an end of the war and its bloody instructions. We shall hear no more of "war records." As the HERALD said during the canvass, "war records" are now so dead that "Mr. Tilden would not lose fifty votes had he commanded the attack on Fort Sumter." This canvass shows that the Americans are a magnanimous, forgiving people; that when the rebellion was suppressed the rebels became once more our brothers and our fellow citizens, and that in the progress of these States in the road to empire the test of political rewards must henceforward be merit, honesty, capacity, not what was done or said during the civil war; for, as all candid men must admit, many of the finest characters of this generation fought against the North. What shall we do with them? There is General Longstreet, for instance. He fought until the surrender of Lee, and was second in command to Lee at Appomattox; and yet he is as good a republican as even Roscoe Conkling could wish, and if to-morrow he were to be a candidate, say for the Vice Presidency, Mr. Conkling would speak and vote for him. And if Longstreet, why not men like Lee, Stonewall Jackson, Johnston, Breckinridge and Hunter? Are these men any worse Americans now for having fought against us ten years ago? Are they to be despised because they have not joined the republicans? Are they not better in every way than the murrain of carpet-baggers and "scalawags" that now overrun the South? Would not even Mr. Conkling prefer to see Breckinridge in the place of Kellogg, Hunter in the place of Moses, and Lee and Jackson, if they were alive, in the place of Patterson and Clayton? Would he not feel that the country was better served by these gallant and honest rebels than by the miserable riff-raff that now infest, deplete and dishonor the South? And is it not a matter for rejoicing that by the results of this very election the dead past has buried its dead, that Americans are brothers to Americans once more, that all the hatreds and sorrows of the rebellion are sleeping under the green hills and valleys of Virginia, and that even for the miserable purposes of a canvass in New York the eloquence of Roscoe Conkling cannot summon up the Mumbo Jumbo of rebellion?

Therefore we are glad that the election on Tuesday destroys all "war records" as claims for political distinction. The rebellion passes from politics into history. The election has been really, to repeat the familiar phrase of the hour, the "tidal wave." Conservatism, which seems to have been moving over the world, has asserted its mastery in the United States. We have seen its influence in France in the overthrow of the Thiers Republic and the establishment of the Septennate. We have seen it in Spain in the fall of Castelar and the accession of Serrano. We have seen it in England in the dethronement of Gladstone and the liberal party, and the accession of the tory Disraeli to power. We see similar influences in Germany, and the question there is whether a statesman of the prodigious power of Bismarck will be able to sustain the radicalism of Prussia against the conservations of Germany. It was, therefore, time, in the natural movement of events, that the United States should yearn for the rest which will come with the advent of the democracy to power.

The victory has been so dazzling, so transcendent, so conclusive in its results, that we can hardly comprehend it. Cæsarism is dead. Henry Wilson was right when he said that the third term was the heaviest burden the republican party could carry. The next Congress, as matters now look, will be under the control of the democrats. The thirteen or fourteen years of republican supremacy will be severely scrutinized. New questions will not be considered so seriously as old questions. A duty will fall upon the next Congress more serious than any that has fallen upon any Congress since the foundation of the government. The democrats will be called upon to show the utmost wisdom. There must be moderation, peace, care. How far this spirit of investigation will go in the next Congress is a most serious question. But the natural disposition to extreme and unusual questions, to impetuous and heroic legislation, must be restrained. Already we have suggestions that the duty of this Congress will be the impeachment of President Grant. But in this and other propositions Congress must not go too fast. An attempted impeachment of the President which should fail from precipitate management would be a calamity to the party and a scandal to the country. We can understand how the severe investigations that will be the duty of Congress might perhaps result in developments that would make impeachment a national duty. The gold speculations under Gould; the St. Domingo job; the President's eccentric interference with the treaty-making prerogatives of the Senate; the Washington Ring and the President's already more than suspected connection with real estate speculations; the departure from the constitutional traditions in appointments to office; the hundred jobs which one after the other have grown into offensive life under the President's patronage—these and other matters must now come for review before the representatives of the people. They may, it is true, result in the formal demand for the impeachment which now simply comes as a suggestion from the exultant leaders of a victorious party.

We are far from saying that if such a necessity arises the democratic party should hesitate about its duty. We believe that the Presidential office would become more democratic in its relations to the country if we could demonstrate the practical responsibility of the Executive to the power of impeachment. But in this the leaders of the democracy most move slowly and surely, and make impeachment not a matter of party tactics, but a solemn measure of national duty. In all these matters the newly victorious party must use the utmost discretion. Nothing is more easily thrown away than a victory. All extreme, sudden, fantastic legislation must be repressed. Any wanton attempt to degrade the President illegally would aid him. The Southern States must be kept in peaceful relations with the Union. The defeat of Grant must not be regarded as synonymous with the revival of rebellion. We must have no dishonest tampering with the finances. "No secession and no repudiation!" must be the watchword of the now triumphant democracy. A party thus animated may enter with confidence upon the most solemn tasks. If one of these tasks should be impeachment it should not be avoided nor should it be welcomed. The democratic party owes the utmost justice and consideration to Grant. If the result should be the arraignment of his administration before the Senate to meet with the condemnation it has already received from the hands of the people, then the country will feel that a painful duty has been performed with delicacy, firmness and with a due regard alike to the fame of the President, the dignity of his office and the rights of the people to hold its public servants, no matter how exalted, to the severest accountability.

Mournings of the Rachels.

The next Congress will present an unfamiliar spectacle to the frequenter of the galleries of the House, and the lady correspondents—as become the modern Rachels—will be kept busy noting the new faces which have just appeared upon the scene and bewailing the absent heroes whom an untoward fate has left at home. The dignified bearing and white mustache of Fernando Wood; the eccentric comedy of Sunset Cox; the modest, quiet face of Michael Kerr; the weazen form of Alexander H. Stephens, will employ as many pens as before. General Banks will be hailed upon his return to the floor as a democrat once more, and one or two other republican leaders in times past will be noted for their activity on the other side. Speaker Blaine, hurled from his Olympian throne to the common lot of common Congressmen, will cause many Sapphic tears to flow, and General Garfield, long the hayseed god of bombazine quilldrivers, will be described as a picture of utter loneliness and despair. But Dawes, for so many years the heavy father of the House, owing to the tidal wave which swept over Massachusetts, will be found not there; neither in the Senate, where a democrat will sit in the chair of Charles Sumner. Horace Maynard, dark and swarthy as an Indian, a favorite subject for the female pen, has also disappeared. The rich, ambrosial locks of General Negley, a match for Logan's raven hair and Farnsworth's flowing beard in the days of auld lang syne, will no longer float through the corridors and in and out of the Speaker's room. General Sypher's military bearing will be missed at the head of the army of strikers. But, saddest picture of a saddening scene, General Butler will range no more with leonine ferocity through the national menagerie. In his loss the dramatic element of the House is lost indeed. What should we think of a play where all the characters were cut upon the model of Goldsmith's village parson? What shall we think of a Congress where everything is stupid that is not respectable and everything respectable that is not stupid? General Butler detested stupidity and stood not with the order of respectability. If he never did a thoroughly good thing neither was he ever guilty of a thoroughly stupid thing. In him Oakes Ames found a friend, though his hand had not touched Crédit Mobilier. He defended moieties, even though the doing of it shook the Young Men's Christian Association to its very foundations. He was always profane when the House was disposed to say the litany, and he shocked the moral sense of people not so much in that he was not a saint as in refusing to be a hypocrite. Such a man cannot fail to be missed, especially at a time of political revolution when many new men sit in the seats of old foes and old favorites and a new hand holds the wand which moulds legislation. The next Congress will be not unlike a village after a plague—the Sunday school patriots and the tavern topers having disappeared together and youth and freshness taking their places. We may not bewail the loss of these except as a bit of sentiment to employ the pens of women; but we fear these modern Rachels will mourn in vain, for the decade which sent volunteer generals into the House is ended. The Butlers and Negleys and Syphers are already lost, and most of those who remain, by whatever party affiliations they appeal to their constituencies, may also and as well be spared. It will not hurt the country if the mournings of the Rachels are revived occasionally, should their wailings only signify that thereby the back pay and like heroes are being dropped from the roll.

MOCK RETRENCHMENTS will not do. The party in power at the late long session (the first of the Forty-third Congress) undertook and carried through many retrenchments, in a small way, in the several departments of the government; but they were little better than the savings of cheese parings and candle ends, and so they have passed for nothing.

THE WAR IN SPAIN.—Don Carlos' troops have commenced to bombard the important position of the Spanish republicans at Irun, near the Bidassoa, on the frontier of France. This movement of the royalists is preliminary to the forcing of a general battle, which is likely to take place at an early moment.

"Herald Prophecies."

It is not without interest even as a matter of journalistic history to recall some of the HERALD prophecies made eighteen months ago, when we began the discussion of what has been so fiercely denounced as the "sensation of Cæsarism." Let us see how they read now in the blaze of recent events.

The First Prophecy.—On July 5, 1873, the HERALD, in the first article on Cæsarism, in opening the discussion of the subject, said:—

> The attributes of the Presidential office, its prerogatives and possibilities, its ever-increasing power and splendor, the yearning of a cultivated and wealthy class for court honors and the attractions of a court life, the desire of those in office to retain power and reward, the question, in fact, whether a strong Executive does not weaken the Republic, must in time become the most important in our politics. If this question of Cæsarism continues to assume a menacing aspect we shall have an issue more difficult to decide and more essential in its proper determination to the national liberties than any that has gone before.

Roscoe Conkling, who would not respond to the desire of the people at Brooklyn the other evening to hear his views on Cæsarism, must think now that it has assumed a "menacing aspect."

The Second Prophecy.—On July 7, 1873, the HERALD, in the second article on Cæsarism, said, in advice to the republican party:—

> We can name twenty Marc Antonys in our city who would carry the crown of a third nomination to President Grant with pride and swiftness. We must meet Cæsarism now, not by postponing this question out of deference to the feelings of General Grant, but by meeting it, discussing it and searching out public opinion. If our public men have no views upon the subject or are silent and non-committal we must educate them now.

We think that even Marc Antony Butler will agree with us now that the republicans should have met Cæsarism and not postponed it "out of deference to the feelings of General Grant."

The Third Prophecy.—On July 8, 1873, the HERALD, in the third article on the subject of Cæsarism, said:—

> The men of whom Mr. Colfax may be regarded as the most prominent example, the Prætorian guards of the republican party, have made Cæsarism possible in our time, and have compelled us to open an issue with the people which has not and its parallel in gravity since the foundation of the government. A declaration from General Grant now that he would not be a candidate for re-election would be an act of magnanimity on his part.

We think that Centennial Dix approves of these sentiments and wishes perhaps he had said as much a year or so before this election.

The Fourth Prophecy.—On July 9, 1873, the HERALD, in the fourth article on the subject of Cæsarism, said:—

> It is, moreover, a painful and extraordinary fact that while every politician in America is thinking over the problem whether General Grant will or will not be a candidate for re-election no leading republican has dared to say that such a candidacy would be practically an avowal of the failure of republican institutions. We contend that all sentimental issues in our politics should be postponed until we have decided the fundamental questions.

Vice President Wilson will agree with us that the people have "postponed all sentimental issues" and "have decided the fundamental questions" of Cæsarism and the third term.

The Fifth Prophecy.—On July 10, 1873, the HERALD, in the fifth article on the subject of Cæsarism, said:—

> It is not too late. General Grant has an unrivalled opportunity, while at the same time he is menaced with a fascinating, terrible danger. Let him throw aside the temptations to Cæsarism that now pervade the republican party. Let him show that power has not taught him ambition, which we are told is the last infirmity of noble minds, and in giving us a generous policy build a monument more enduring than the Column Vendôme, a monument that posterity will honor and not strive to root out and destroy.

General Grant will agree with us, especially if this impeachment whispering should grow in volume, that it would have been better had he accepted the "unrivalled opportunity." But it is too late.

The Sixth Prophecy.—On July 11, 1873, the HERALD, in the sixth article on Cæsarism, said:—

> So with the other members of the Cabinet. They are nothing to us but as men who labor in the vineyard as best they may, only to pass away when the sun goes down and be followed by new laborers to-morrow. So long as they work well and avoid the constable we do not see that they concern us in any way whatever. The question whether we are to have Cæsarism or republicanism does concern us, as it does our children. In that contest we are enlisted, and we shall serve to the end of the war.

The HERALD has served to the end of the war. But is the war at an end yet?

Altogether these "sensations" as they were, and "prophecies" as they are, form very interesting reading as a part of the literature of the canvass.

The Registership and Mr. Morrissey.

The triumphant election of General Jones to the office of Register is a remarkable and gratifying event. It shows how the people of New York, without distinction of party, will treat good nominations. It also shows how largely the people are influenced by sentimental considerations in electing men to office. General Jones had a bright and honorable personal record, and he had commended himself to popular approval by his generous treatment of the family of Miles O'Reilly. His triumph, therefore, will please all classes without distinction of party.

It is said that John Morrissey has not been treated well in the matter of the Registership by Tammany Hall. The allegation is that Kelly and his friends grew weary of John, sought to throw him, and succeeded. To use a phrase which the bluff gladiator will understand, they "stocked the cards on him." It really does not seem, from what we learn, that John had a fair show. He is a blunt, honest fellow, with more manhood than falls to politicians generally, and deserved better treatment.

John must be philosophical and wait his time. He would do well to make his peace with Adonis Creamer and enter into the opposition to Tammany,

THE PRESIDENT AND THE PRESS.—General Grant, in his earlier career, owed more to the press than any man now in public life; and yet since he has been in a public career he has always disdained the press. No administration has been so scornful in its relations with the journalism of the country. Even the journals which were anxious to serve him have been treated with contumely whenever they ventured upon the slightest manifestation of independence. To the journalism of the country he owes more than to any other influence his condemnation and fall. This fact is not without its poetic phases, and it would be interesting to know what he now thinks of the press of the country.

THE GERMAN PROJECT OF GOVERNMENT FOR ALSACE AND LORRAINE has been promulgated in an imperial Prussian decree. It bears the impress of Bismarck's ideas. There will be a legislative representation, the members being strictly accountable to the Berlin centralization, and the territory will thus become a sort of subordinate training school for the education of future Chancellors for Berlin.

The Election of United States Senator.

The Legislature of the State of New York will, at its next session, elect a United States Senator in place of Reuben E. Fenton. The Senate, with Laning, democrat, elected over Alberger, republican, in the Thirty-first district, stands as it did last session, twelve democrats, eighteen republicans and two independent republicans elected by democratic votes; but on the question of United States Senator, even if the two independents should vote for a separate candidate, the division will practically be twelve democrats and twenty republicans, or a majority of eight against the democratic candidate. The democrats would require sixty-nine Assemblymen, or a majority of ten in the lower house, to elect their United States Senator by a majority of two on the vote in joint session. There are one hundred and twenty-eight members in the House of Assembly and thirty-two Senators, making together one hundred and sixty votes; and on the above basis the democrats would have sixty-nine Assemblymen and twelve Senators, a total of eighty-one, while the republicans would have fifty-nine Assemblymen and twenty Senators, a total of seventy-nine. Should sixty-seven democrats and sixty-one republicans be elected to the Assembly, the two independent Senators would hold the decision of the United States Senatorship in their hands. The vote in joint session would then be sixty-seven democratic Assemblymen and twelve Senators—a total of seventy-nine, against sixty-one republican Assemblymen and eighteen straight republican Senators—a total of seventy-nine. Neither side could elect without the votes of the two independent Senators. The United States law of 1866, chapter 245, regulating the mode in which Senators of the United States shall be elected by the State Legislatures, provides that each house shall, by a viva voce vote of each member present, name a person for Senator on the second Tuesday after the meeting and organization thereof. On the day following the houses shall meet in joint assembly, and if the same person shall not have received a majority in each house, shall proceed to choose a Senator by viva voce vote, the person having the majority of votes being declared elected. Should there be no choice the joint assembly is required to meet and take at least one vote per day during the session until an election is made. Formerly it was necessary that each house should make a nomination in its own chamber before the joint session could be held. This offered facilities for obstructing an election, and the law of 1866 was passed to prevent factious delay and compel a choice.

Administration Organs.

One of our contemporaries which has a peculiar interest in the subject gives some sound advice to the President in regard to organs. It was at one time itself understood to be an organ of the administration; but it was not a servile organ. It advocated many points in the Executive tactics, explained and defended others; but where there were points which seemed indefensible it spoke against them with vigorous freedom. Its advocacy for this very reason had some weight with the public, but its freedom gave mortal offence at Washington, and an out-and-out organ was established, which it was thought would ruin the journal that had even a moderate independence of spirit. People at Washington evidently do not understand that the days of organs are gone by; that an intelligent people will pay no attention to the support of a journal that has no option to support or oppose; has no freedom of opinion, but must support, in every instance, every measure. They are likely to discover, however, that in misunderstandings between governments and newspapers the journal can do without the government a great deal better than the government can do without the journal. Indeed, any relationship whatever in the nature of pledged support is a burden and an embarrassment to the journal, while it is of incalculable value to the government. If there is any wisdom in Washington the tactics which resulted in the exclusion of our contemporary from favor will be revised, for if the democrats push the notion of impeachment the government will need intelligent advocates before the people.

THE RETIREMENT OF MISS CUSHMAN.—Miss Cushman will bid farewell to the stage on Saturday evening, and the event will be a great occasion in our theatrical annals. Her engagement has been a wonderful series of triumphs, and Messrs. Jarrett & Palmer, who have managed it, have, in the presentation of the plays, revived all the glories of the Edwin Booth management. This success shows that the people of New York will always patronize good acting, and especially when the managers show taste, enterprise and genius in the arrangement of the stage affairs. The programme for the farewell night of Miss Cushman has been published. Already every seat in the theatre is taken. Our best people seem to vie with each other in their effort to do her honor, and the occasion will be as remarkable as the recent farewell of Dejazet to the Paris stage. Miss Cushman has earned all these honors by her genius, her blameless, earnest, industrious life, her exertions for art and the elevation of the drama, and she will carry with her into retirement the best wishes of the community for a long, peaceful and honorable life HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF.—In 1840 the democrats were swept out of power as by a whirlwind; and yet in 1844 they elected their Presidential candidate, Polk, over the great Henry Clay. In 1852 the democrats elected Pierce by the electoral votes of all the States except four; but in 1853 their party began to break up and, narrowly escaping a defeat in 1856, it was scattered to the winds in 1860. In 1872 General Grant was re-elected by the electoral votes of all the States except six, with two-thirds of each house of Congress to back him, and yet in 1874 we have something very much like the reactionary whirlwind of 1840, and upon similar issues.

ELECTION FRAUDS and outrages in various shapes are coming before our police courts; but they are so few in number that they indicate, upon the whole, a remarkably honest and orderly, rather than a corrupt and turbulent, city election.

Mr. Wickham and the Tammany Johns.

Mr. Wickham has announced that he "will endeavor to be the people's Mayor and no man's man." These words, spoken at a Tammany Hall gathering, in the festive early hours of a general triumph, are, perhaps, not to be taken literally. It may be doing the gentleman an injustice to accept them seriously; but if they are to be taken seriously and literally the public will be eminently glad to know it, and will have reason to rejoice in the election of the new Mayor; for great talent and great experience in the administration of public affairs are of less consequence in the Mayoralty than the honest determination to serve the public and not the political cliques and rings. But what will the Tammany Johns say to this declaration? Is it a formal notice to them that they have no lot or parcel in this victory? Is it intended to correct any rash notion on their part that the distribution of the Mayoralty spoil was in their hands? If so there will be war; but Mr. Wickham is on the side to win in such a battle.

> Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just;
> And he but naked, though lock'd up in steel,
> Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted.

THE THIRD TERM.—The general voice of the country has settled the question in 1874 for 1876. As the President could not speak on the subject the people have spoken for him.

BANKS FOR SPEAKER.—In the next Congress the Speakership will very likely be between General Banks and Mr. Fernando Wood. General Banks' recognized capacity puts him fully on an equality with Mr. Wood in that respect, while his experience in an office in which experience is of pre-eminent value gives him an evident advantage. It is to be remembered, moreover, that he was one of the men who could not find favor in the eyes of the administration, and that is likely to be looked upon as the most solid evidence of political honesty that can be given in a man's favor. If the democrats should give any prominence in their politics to the impeachment of the Executive a strong Speaker will be of great service in the conflict that that proposition must provoke.

MR. RICHARD SCHELL, Congressman elect, knows that General Grant has never thought of going for a third term and thinks that New York, in Conkling and Tilden, will furnish two Presidential candidates for 1876.

THE COURTS.—The Hodge defalcation case (five hundred thousand dollars), the Naylor revenue case (two hundred thousand dollars) and an important case, upon which judgment was rendered against the careless fumigation of passenger ships, were among the matters before our United States Courts yesterday.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

Waterloo was nothing to it.

"Sire, c'est une revolution!"

"A bad year for the righteous."

How is the President's dignity this morning?

And so the third term was only "a newspaper sensation!"

Now, then, for the various "interpretations" of the great result.

Senator Conkling might better have taken the Chief-Justiceship.

Chancellor John V. L. Pruyn, of Albany, is at the Brevoort House.

Mr. William McMaster, of Toronto, has apartments at the Brevoort House.

The Dublin Lord Mayor and his lady found things all right on their arrival home.

General Thomas S. Rosser, of Minnesota, is stopping at the Metropolitan Hotel.

Dignity killed a cat. Perhaps the decision in twenty States may kill dignity.

Judge E. H. Durell, of Louisiana, is residing temporarily at the Astor House.

Mr. William E. Chandler, of New Hampshire, has arrived at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

General J. J. Abercrombie, United States Army, is registered at the St. Denis Hotel.

Mr. John Crossley, M. P., of Liverpool, is sojourning at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Rev. Patrick F. Lyndon, of Boston, is among the recent arrivals at the Everett House.

General Wesley Merritt, United States Army, is quartered at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

So much for Ben Butler. He had an enormous majority in the nominating convention.

If Butler's cloud in Massachusetts has a silver lining will he call that silver a retainer?

Alas for Morrissey and his Hayes! Did Tammany stock the cards on John and Jimmy?

The trouble with the republican party seems to be that the voters didn't get any retainers.

Up to the latest moment not a word said by the republicans about fraudulent voting. How's this? Judge W. L. Learned, of the New York Supreme Court, arrived from Albany yesterday at the Gilsey House.

Mr. Thomas A. Scott, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, is staying at the Brevoort House.

'Tis said that Uncle Dick's nomination was "put" to him. That made his "call" and election sure.—Commercial Advertiser.

"For of all sad words, by tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, 'We shan't have Ben.'" —Commercial Advertiser.

Moreau, the Parisian dealer in vegetable medicine, who poisoned his two wives, is called in his neighborhood Rhubarbe-bleue.

If "newspaper sensations" are of as much consequence as the third term has proved, wise rulers should treat them with respect.

President MacMahon entertained Mr. Washburne, the American Minister, and Lord Lytton at an elegant banquet on Tuesday night, 3d inst., in Paris.

Harper's Weekly, in alluding to Grant's silence on the third term, says that "silence is golden." Now that we can comprehend as a good reason why Grant should appreciate silence.

A special despatch received from British Columbia states that Dean Edward Cridge, of Victoria, British Columbia, has seceded from the Church of England with 350 parishioners, in consequence of differences with Dr. Hills, Bishop of Columbia. Mr. Cridge is the pioneer minister of the province, having been sent out by the Hudson Bay Company.

Right Hon. Hugh C. E. Childers, M. P.; Mr. Spencer Childers and Mr. F. Broughton arrived from England in the steamship Abyssinia yesterday, and are at the Brevoort House. Mr. Hugh Childers held the position of First Lord of the Admiralty in the Gladstone Cabinet, and has recently been elected President of the Great Western Railway of Canada.

Republicans had no faith in the future of their party. With the war record and with the constant purpose to secure good government they could have held the country for fifty years; but, without faith in the power of what was good in their politics, they endeavored to secure themselves against the future by organizing the South on a party basis, and we see the result of their endeavor.

Harper's Weekly publishes a cut which represents Grant as the Sphinx and the people who want to know about the third term as clamorous jackasses; and this on the day when twenty States had declared their apprehension of that silence. Is it meant for sarcasm on Grant? Does it mean that he has no more comprehension of what is going on in the world than the Sphinx has of the desert about it?

General Preparation for a Sanguinary Battle at Irun—The Carlists Bombarding the Works.

LONDON, Nov. 4, 1874.

A special telegram to the Times from Hendaye says that peremptory orders have been received from Paris for the expulsion of all Spaniards, without distinction, before Tuesday evening, from the frontier towns on the right bank of the Bidassoa for fear they may interfere in the conflict at Irun. Plan of Imperial Representation in Alsace and Lorraine.

BERLIN, Nov. 4, 1874.

The question of creating a provincial representative body for Alsace and Lorraine is pressing for settlement. As a solution of the matter the Emperor William proposes the establishment of an Assembly of Notables, whose duty shall be to advise the imperial government respecting the interest of the provinces.

HOW THE ANNEXED TERRITORY IS TO BE GOVERNED.

An imperial decree of October 29 establishes the Representative Assembly of Alsace-Lorraine, and fixes its duties and powers. It will express its views upon the budget and upon bills not reserved for imperial legislation, and also upon bills which are not subject to discussion by the district diets. The Assembly will be composed of ten delegates from each district diet to be elected for three years.

The Emperor reserves the right to fix the time and place of the sittings of the Assembly, which will be private.

The Governor of the provinces will be entitled to demand a hearing and to assist in person or by representative at the sittings of the body.

A number of Deputies representing the department of Dordogne presented an address to the Duke Decazes, Minister of Foreign Affairs, protesting against the arrest of Orelie Tounens by an Argentine man-of-war while en route for Patagonia.

When arrested he was returning to Patagonia from France, where he had been to negotiate a loan. The Argentine Republic, claiming jurisdiction over Patagonia, arrested Tounens as an usurper.

CUBA.

Distressed Mariners Arrested on the Coast—The Prisoners Claim to be American Fishermen.

A letter dated Havana, October 28, says:—

Last Saturday a fishing smack, supposed to be an American vessel, was seen off the little village of Bacurano, about ten miles to the eastward of Havana. A boat with three men was seen to put off from the vessel and pull towards the shore by some fishermen, who notified the Captain of the Partido, who, in turn, informed the Governor of the district. Guardia Civiles, soldiers and policemen were ordered out and the neighborhood scoured.

Two of the men were found, arrested and immediately lodged in jail, whence they have written to explain that they are American fishermen, of Key West, who were blown off from the fishing ground toward the coast of Cuba, where they landed in order to purchase provisions, their stock being exhausted. The Spanish authorities will allow no communication with them, nor will they say of what the men are accused. Nothing has been seen of the third man who came ashore and the smack has also disappeared.

RAILROAD COLLISION.

A Freight and Passenger Train on the Air Line Road Collide—Superintendent Bishop Injured.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 4, 1874.

This morning, near Northford, on the Air Line Railroad, a collision took place, causing damage amounting to about $5,000 and severely injuring Mr. Bishop, Superintendent of the road. The freight train, which leaves this city at six o'clock, collided with an extra passenger train on its way from Middletown to this city for the purpose of carrying the State Railroad Commissioners over the road. The engineer of the extra train expected to be able to reach the side track before the freight train arrived, but as the latter was ahead of time, the collision took place. There was in the valley at the time, which explains the reason why the engineer did not see the danger. As the trains came together, the superintendent of the road, Mr. Bishop, was standing in the cab of the engine, looking through the window, and the shock of the collision forced his head through the glass, cutting his face and bruising him seriously.

All trains were delayed two hours by the accident. Both engines were so much injured that reconstruction will be necessary before they can be brought again into use.

OBITUARY.

M. Coulon, the French Singer.

The Paris journals of the 25th of October announce the death of M. Coulon, the French singer, at the age of fifty-three. He made his début at the Opéra Comique on August 25, 1851, in the part of Atalamuc in the "Fée aux Roses." He was one of the best pupils of Garcia, and, having already sung in the provinces, had just signed an engagement for Strasburg, when M. Perrin conceived the idea of attaching him to his theatre. A forfeit was paid, and Coulon came out at Paris. He remained several years at the Opéra Comique, where he created, among other parts, that of Jacques in the "Château de la Barbe Bleue," an opera by MM. de Saint Georges and Limnander, which had the misfortune of being first represented on the 1st of December, 1851, that is to say, on the very eve of the coup d'état. Coulon at last passed over to the Grand Opera, and played there Bertram in "Robert le Diable," Saint Bris in the "Huguenots," created the part of Satan in the "Herculaneum," and appeared in other important parts. He left that theatre at the end of a few years and went to Brussels. He two years back married Mlle. Levielli, formerly a favorite singer at the Grand Opera in secondary parts, with whom he made an artistic tour in the United States. He lately returned to Paris in bad health, and his malady terminated fatally.

Martin Van Buren Wilcoxson.

The above named gentleman, a nephew of the late President Van Buren, died in London, England, on the 17th inst., at the age of forty-five years. He expired at the house of Mr. Adam Badeau, Consul General of the United States, from the effects of an attack of Bright's disease of the kidneys. Mr. Wilcoxson was a citizen of New York and vastly esteemed. He was married to a daughter of the late Nathaniel Miles, who was for many years prominent in the diplomatic service of the United States.

M. F. J. Marrast.

The death at Paris, October 25, is announced of M. Francois Joseph Marrast, aged seventy-seven, brother of Armand Marrast. He was for some time at the head of a school in the Provinces, but had latterly lived in complete retirement.

M. Jugelet, the Painter.

The death, at Rouen, is announced of M. Jugelet, aged sixty-nine, painter of sea pieces. He was a pupil of Gudin, and exhibited for the first time in Paris in 1826. He died on the 23d of October.

SHOOTING AFFRAY IN WESTCHESTER.

An unfortunate occurrence, which may possibly be attended by fatal consequences, transpired in the extreme easterly portion of the city of Yonkers, immediately opposite West Mount Vernon, on Tuesday afternoon. It appears that Joseph Brinning, a German, aged about forty-five, living in the last named village, was in the act of gathering fallen apples on the farm of Isaac Sherwood, when he received in his back the contents of a shotgun carried by a young man named George Appell, who was in an adjoining field. The wounded man was with difficulty removed to his home, where he now lies in a precarious condition. The affair is shrouded in mystery, no information being obtainable as to the cause of the shooting. On the affidavit of Brinning's wife, which charged Appell with felonious intent, a warrant was yesterday issued by Justice Edmonds, of Mount Vernon, but up to a late hour in the afternoon the accused party had not been taken into custody.

AMUSEMENTS.

Italian Opera—Mlle. Albani's Mignon.

Mlle. Emma Albani appeared last night for the first time as Mignon in Ambroise Thomas' opera. It was a very remarkable impersonation, as unlike those of her two predecessors as can be. It was characterized by naïveté, childlike sweetness, exquisite singing and that nameless charm of magnetism which is the chief attribute of genius. From the time that the ill-treated child appears among her gypsy abductors until she awakes to a realization of her true position in her Italian home, throughout the scenes of Mignon's checkered life, her meeting with her father, who wanders in search of her, crazy on account of losing her, her rescue from the brutality of her gypsy master, her love for the gallant gentleman who gives her freedom, her jealousy of the scheming actress who treats human affections and sufferings with a like indifference, her despair when she finds herself abandoned, her bright dreams of home and her joy in finding herself with her lover and father, never more to be separated, all those changing phases of the story were interpreted by Mlle. Albani with a power that drew all its attractiveness from its complete naturalness. We missed many of the "effects" that in certain scenes have been brought in to insure applause, but in their stead was something more valuable—true art. The romance, which seems to give a definite musical coloring to the title rôle, "Non conosci il bel suol," was rendered with much feeling by Mlle. Albani. We would prefer, however, a more liberal use of tempo rubato in this beautiful aria. The conductor's baton at times should be subservient to the prima donna. The duet, "Leggiadre rendinelle," a number worthy of Mozart, was partly nullified by the shortcomings of the basso, although the prima donna gave entire satisfaction. In the second act the "Styrienne," the most popular and most dashing number in the opera, became the principal feature of the performance. Mlle. Albani's acting and singing in this scene deserved the applause that rewarded her and bore out to the fullest extent the high anticipations formed of her Mignon. She was gay without being boisterous, and romped through the scene without making use of studied poses and points. The scene before the castle on the shore of the lake, in which Mignon, distracted with jealousy while listening to the triumph of her rival in the theatrical performance within, moans the words, "Ella è là, presso a lui! vittorioso ella gode," brought out the warmth of dramatic expression so eminently possessed by our American prima donna in its brightest form. The last scene was full of sympathetic power and tenderness. The Mignon of Mlle. Albani may be regarded as a very touching operatic impersonation, and will be attractive to all who look for an unexceptional school of singing—a sweet, sympathetic voice, personal attractions, and artlessness of manner. Mlle. Heilbron proved to be the best representative of the coquettish actress, Filina, we have had in New York. The light, brilliant music of the rôle seemed to suit her better than any she has heretofore essayed during the present season, and in the well known "Polacca" she gained an encore. Miss Cary made the most of the stupid rôle of "Federico," and sang the rondo gavotte in the second act commendably. Signor De Bassini created a very favorable impression in the rôle of Guglielmo (Wilhelm Meister), and sang the two airs, "Addio, Mignon," and "Ah! non credea l'affitta," with neatness and expression, reminding one very much of Capoul. His acting, however, did not by any means reach the same standard. The Lotario of Signor Fiorini was destitute of any quality that could recommend it to praise, and the Giarno of Mr. Hall was a very ferocious portraiture. Certain slips in the chorus and orchestra marred their otherwise commendable performance. The opera can never be pleasing to a musical mind out of its congenial sphere, the Opera Comique, where it was first produced just eight years ago. The Italian recitatives are poor substitutes for the French dialogue and the common themes in which the chorus is introduced are beneath the dignity of the grand opera. "Mignon" on the Opera Comique stage in Paris and on the Italian opera boards represents a very different work. Yet such a performance as that Mlle. Albani presented last night would tend to give attraction to even a worse opera. "Aida" will be given in Brooklyn to-night, with Potentini, Cary, Carpi, Del Puente and Fiorini in the cast.

Stadt Theatre—Opera Bouffe.

The season at this spacious establishment was commenced last night under exceedingly favorable auspices, not only in regard to the character of the entertainment or the number of persons in attendance, but chiefly on account of the desirable changes recently made in the interior of the building. Heretofore the Stadt Theatre has had strange terrors for the timid, because of the limited means of egress in case of accident, while its palmiest days could never boast much in the way of architectural upholstering or scenic attractions. It was in every sense a theatrical wilderness from which it was no easy task to go abroad. A judicious expenditure and a considerable amount of taste, have, however, worked wonders, and last night the theatre wore quite a cheerful, bright and animated look. What with handsome and appropriate decorations, new scenery, and, above all, increased means of entrance and exit, the Stadt Theatre has undergone a transformation which must be very acceptable to its numerous patrons. The artistic attraction consisted in the first appearance of Miss Lina Mayr, who is said to be a great favorite in Germany in opéra bouffe. She essayed the rôle of Boulotte in "Barbe Bleue," and was supported by several performers who have already appeared in German opera in this city. Miss Mayr, to begin with, has the all-important advantages of good looks and a comely figure, and has evidently studied with care the necessary points which contribute to the success of an opéra bouffe artist. Her voice, while calling for no special comment so far as strength and volume are concerned, is sweet and flexible, and answers all the purposes which a part like Boulotte demands. But her acting is full of that vivacity, dash and abandon without which it would be impossible to portray the rollicking rôle of the giddy headed shepherdess. Indeed she left little to be desired and the enthusiastic demonstrations which greeted her efforts proved she had made quite a favorable impression. The choice morceaux which fall to Boulotte she rendered with artistic finish, and during the evening she was called repeatedly before the curtain. Her success was altogether assured, although opéra bouffe in German would hardly commend itself to those whose ears are familiar with the sparkling dialogue in the language which, of all others, can best convey the spicy thoughts of joyous though irreverent writers. Blue Beard was creditably represented by Herr Schütz, as were the parts of King Bobeche by Herr Wilt and Clementine by Mrs. Wilt, while Popolani had an admirable interpreter in Herr Schönwolff. The chorus was very fair and the piece handsomely placed on the stage. At the conclusion of the performance Mr. Adolph Neuendorf, the director and conductor of the orchestra, in response to enthusiastic calls, appeared before the curtain and thanked the audience on the part of the management. "Barbe-Bleue" will be repeated during the week.

The Fifth Avenue Theatre.

Hannah Cowley's sparkling comedy, "The Belle's Stratagem," was presented last night at this house with the care and completeness which has distinguished Manager Daly's revivals. In order to suit modern tastes considerable alterations have been made, with excellent results. The play is by no means a strong one in point of interest, but the sparkle of its dialogue is refreshing after the efforts of the writers of modern comedy. The cast was a very strong one, including nearly all the popular favorites, but the characters are too slightly sketched to afford the actors much scope for the display of their best powers. The selection of Mr. Louis James for the rôle of Doricourt was not very happy. The character is one suited to a light comedian, and Mr. James' talents are decidedly better shown in heavy parts. As a result there was too much of the melodramatic element in Mr. James' Doricourt and too little of the charming badinage which becomes his character. In every scene Mr. James was in earnest, which somewhat damped the fun of the piece. Miss Davenport as Letitia Hardy acquitted herself with credit. She portrayed the moods of the heroine with intelligence and dash. Few of her performances have been better rounded or more satisfactory. Miss Jewett as Lady Touchwood was ingenuous and sentimental. The Sir George Touchwood of Mr. Parkes was a well considered and effective interpretation of the honorable, but jealous-minded gentleman sketched by the author. The remaining characters were acceptably filled and the performance passed off with fair success. "The Belle's Stratagem" will be presented during the week.

Musical and Dramatic Notes.

Boucicault's new Irish play will be produced on the 8th at Wallack's.

Hon. W. F. Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill," has returned from the Big Horn Expedition, and will soon reappear on the dramatic stage for a short engagement.

A grand sacred concert will be given on Sunday, November 8, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music for the benefit of St. Mary's church. Miss Violetta Colville will sing.

There will be a "Guy Mannering" matinee at Booth's this afternoon. This was arranged in order to meet the excessive demand for places to witness Miss Cushman's farewell impersonation.

The first of Thomas' public rehearsals takes place at Steinway Hall to-day. The programme consists of two orchestral works, "Harold in Italy," symphony by Berlioz, and the Heroic Symphony by Beethoven and Greig's new piano concerto.

Mr. Tennyson, who had not been to a theatre for ten years, went up to London to witness Mr. Irving's performance of "Richelieu," and was so pleased with it that he invited the actor to his house in Surrey, where, during his brief holiday, Mr. Irving stayed two days.

The farewell ceremonies in honor of Miss Cushman, supplementary to the play at Booth's Theatre, on Saturday evening, will be of the most remarkable character. Mr. William Cullen Bryant has signified his intention to deliver the address, and the illustrious tragedienne will respond in person. Mr. R. H. Stoddard, the poet; President Roberts, of the New York College, and Judge John R. Brady will also be participants, surrounded by members of the Arcadian Club, the managers of all the metropolitan theatres and the more prominent ladies and gentlemen of the theatrical profession. The two lower proscenium boxes of the theatre will be occupied by the committees of the Arcadian Club and Army and Navy Club, the latter headed by Major General Hancock. In the Arcadian box will be Governor-elect Tilden, Mayor-elect Wickham, Governor Dix and others of equal prominence. The boxes will be magnificently decorated, and the front of the balcony circle will also be tastefully ornamented. Downing's Ninth Regiment Band is not only to lead the street procession, but will perform in the theatre while Miss Cushman is preparing for the reception. The out-of-door arrangements are now perfected, and will be novel and imposing. Koster & Greene, agents of the Messrs. Edge, have gratuitously contributed all the fireworks, and the pyrotechnic display in front of the theatre promises to be one of the finest ever made in this city. There will be two magnificent set pieces placed in front of Masonic Hall. Besides the Arcadian Club, the scenic artists of New York will join in the procession. The interior of the theatre will be artistically decorated, and the entrance on Twenty-third street transformed into a bower of evergreens. The neighboring houses will display the national colors, and it may well be anticipated that the appearance of the locality, on the exit of Miss Cushman by the stage door, will be one of the most brilliant and animated ever witnessed in the metropolis.

BISHOP BACON DYING.

Return of Distinguished Roman Prelates from Europe—Bishop McCloskey's Welcome.

At about four o'clock yesterday morning the French steamer Pereire, from Havre and Brest, came to an anchor off Sandy Hook, the fog being too dense for the pilot to bring her up the bay. Among the disappointed people on board her was the venerable and Most Reverend Archbishop McCloskey, who was desirous of reaching shore as soon as possible on account of the sickness of a brother prelate on board the ship—viz., Bishop Bacon, of Portland, Me., who was about breathing his last. Towards the afternoon the atmosphere having become brighter, the steamer came up to the Narrows, where she was boarded by a HERALD reporter. On the upper deck were seen a dozen or more of French priests, walking to and fro to warm themselves in the chilly air.

THE ARCHBISHOP.

Archbishop McCloskey was found on deck also, leaning against the rail, looking the picture of health and talking with Father Barry. After a pause in the conversation the reporter addressed himself to the Archbishop and requested that he would tell him about the increased illness of Bishop Bacon and also about his own travels, &c.

The Archbishop then said:—"I left here with Bishop Bacon last August, and have been forced to return home about a month sooner than I otherwise intended; but the impossibility of transporting the Bishop to Havre by rail made me decide to take the French steamer from Brest, the Pereire being the last vessel this season to leave Brest for New York, the company not intending to call there any longer. The Bishop had to be transported to the ship in a very debilitated condition, and it was uncertain how long he could support the effect of the rolling motion, but it was the best thing that could be done under the circumstances. The sufferer had been in hospital at Brest, where every care and attention was devoted to him. He is now very, very weak.

"With reference to myself I have spent the most of my time while in Europe at Rome and Paris, making arrangements for the altar and stained glass for the Cathedral. My health since I have been away has been good, I am glad to say."

The Archbishop told the reporter incidentally as he was leaving him, that he had telegraphed up to the Sisters, at No. 195 West Eleventh street, to make arrangements and prepare a room for Bishop Bacon, as he wanted the best of nursing. Thanking the Archbishop for his kindness the reporter left him.

THE ARRIVAL AT NEW YORK.

Upon arriving at New York the Archbishop was welcomed home by Mr. George McKenzie, the agent of the Transatlantic steamers, and many other friends. Shortly afterward a large deputation of clergymen, comprising Vicar General Father Quinn, Fathers Kearney, Farley, Reilly and many others, clambered over the steamer's side to congratulate the Archbishop, upon his safe return home, and numerous were the inquiries as to friends in Rome, &c. Nor was the sick Bishop forgotten.

THE AMBULANCE.

Through the forethought of Mr. McKenzie a message had been sent to Warden Brennan at Bellevue Hospital, requesting that an ambulance might be sent to the steamer. After the steamer was moored the ambulance drove down the dock and Bishop Bacon, more dead than alive, was taken out of his berth, lifted up four or five steep steps from the deck to a gangway, down which the procession passed, comprising the Vicar General, several priests, the ambulance and steamer doctors and a strong-bodied policeman, who headed the procession to prevent the bearers from falling on the slippery plane leading to the dock. Lanterns were held by sailors on the upper deck, and the mournful party at last placed their patient in the ambulance. A few moans were all the sounds he uttered. His face was terribly altered by long sickness and suffering, and one observer looking steadily at him thought he was dead, so stark and rigid did he look. The ambulance went at a walking pace over the badly paved streets leading to St. Vincent's, the Sisters of Charity institute, at No. 195 West Eleventh street, where kind hands were waiting to do all that lay in their power to alleviate his fearful sufferings.

BISHOP BACON'S DIOCESE.

The diocese of Portland, Me., was established in 1855. It embraces the States of Maine and New Hampshire, and its first bishop was the Right Rev. D. W. Bacon, D. D., who was consecrated on April 22, 1855, in the Portland Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. The diocese contained at the commencement of this year 58 churches, 6 churches building, 52 priests, 20 ecclesiastical students, 4 female religious asylums, 2 asylums, 6 female academies and 20 free schools for a Catholic population of about 80,000.

Bishop Bacon was born in Brooklyn about 1814, and was ordained as a priest by Bishop Dubois about 1838. He was for a long time the pastor of the Church of the Assumption in Brooklyn, and built the Church of St. Mary, the Star of the Sea, in the same place. Although not considered a very powerful preacher his sermons were always of a remarkably telling nature, and he is universally beloved by all who know him.

FRENCH MISSIONARIES FOR TAHITI.

The French steamer Pereire, which arrived at this port yesterday, brought six missionaries, of the Order of the Sacred Heart, from Paris, who are about proceeding to Tahiti, under the direction of the Rev. Père Collette. The following are the names of the missionaries:—R. Prat, J. Bertin, C. Damas, Landaube. They are accompanied by three "Christian brothers," who will give instruction at Tahiti. The party slept on board the Pereire last night and start to-day by train for San Francisco, whence they propose embarking for Tahiti about the 18th inst. in a sailing ship. A reception is to be given them at San Francisco. Father Collette, who accompanies the missionaries, resided in Tahiti for twenty-five years.

FIRE ON BROADWAY.

A fire broke out last night at No. 506 Broadway that caused a damage of $8,000. The third, fourth and fifth floors of the building were occupied by Herzog Bros. & Leopold, who suffered a loss to their stock of $3,000. Gartner & Chapman occupied the second floor; they sustained a loss of $500 by water. The building was injured to the extent of $4,000; insured.

THE POLITICAL HOMICIDE.

The Excitement which the McKenna Murder Has Created.

A WARRANT FOR O'BRIEN.

The Coming Inquest—The Line of Evidence.

In political circles yesterday the main topic of conversation was the Croker-O'Brien imbroglio in the Twenty-first ward. It even engaged more attention than the result of the election itself, especially in the ward where the two men who are mainly mentioned as having participated in the mêlée are so well known and followed by two distinct sets of adherents, who practice ardent devotion to their respective chiefs. Among the O'Brien men the general feeling resolves itself into rough abuse and profanity; while the other party asserts itself in logical argument and demonstration.

As is usual in all affairs of this kind, where two political factions engage in a free fight, the real truth of the affair in all its details will never probably be fully known. Even those most interested from being present can scarcely tell a succinct story, and a dozen different people give a dozen different versions of the fight. In all the flat contradictions, exaggerations and misstatements which are being made it is excessively hard to get at the exact facts. But amidst all this falsification several things are patent—first, that O'Brien's men had been committing numerous personal assaults and outrages in Second avenue, and that they did not rightfully belong in the district; second, that Croker, in spite of grave personal abuse, did not strike the first blow; third, that, amid the contradictory statements made by all parties and the numerous shots fired, it is exceedingly doubtful who fired the shot that killed McKenna.

It will be of course the province of the coroner's jury to sift all the mass of testimony that will be offered on the inquest.

AMONG THE O'BRIENITES.

You cannot find an O'Brien man but that says he believes Croker fired a shot, and that some one of the shots fired killed McKenna. Even those who were not present at the fight say that Croker did it, and that the ex-Sheriff was entirely free of all intention of wrong-doing. They state in substance that Croker went about with the purpose of intimidating those who opposed him, while O'Brien was simply attending to his business as a candidate and took the part of his friends when he found them insulted by the Tammany men; that Croker then struck James O'Brien in the face and the row began, and pistols were used freely by the Tammany men; but that, of course, they used none themselves. They protest that none of the O'Brien men had pistols and would scorn to use them.

AMONG THE CROKERITES.

On the other hand the Croker men, who were in the mêlée, do not deny pulling out revolvers. They simply say that they were four against fifty, and that when they found their opponents using firearms against them they drew forth their own, excepting Croker, who had none, and at each assault of the crowd made them start back by presenting them in their faces. They all agree on one fact, however, that while they all faced toward the crowd on the sidewalk McKenna fell behind them, and must have been shot by accident by one of his own party. They say they did not dare turn around from the general attack and did not know of McKenna being shot at all until all was over, excepting one Sheridan, who says that when McKenna fell the dying man's head struck against the back of his leg, but even then he did not know he was shot and only when going away saw him give a convulsive gasp, as if dying, and noticed some blood trickled over his face to the ground.

THE STATION HOUSE SCENE.

It would appear that as soon as the row was over and McKenna, still alive and unconscious, had been carried to Bellevue Hospital, Croker and his friends went to the station house in Thirty-fifth street to prefer a complaint against O'Brien, for assault and battery. Sergeant Christie was at the desk and heard Croker's complaint. As this was taking place O'Brien walked in with his friends and made a complaint against Croker, of assault and battery, showing his mouth, which had been injured by the blow Croker had given him in response to his own to Croker. Sergeant Christie said that O'Brien was injured and Croker was not, and took O'Brien's complaint first. As these formalities were going on Craig, an O'Brien man, came rushing into the station house, crying, "Croker killed my cousin!" Then, and not till then, did O'Brien change his simple charge of assault and battery to that of murder. Croker protested that this was false, and said, "I never carried a pistol in my life;" but the charge was taken and Croker ordered to a cell. He then said, "Won't you take my charge against O'Brien?" but the Sergeant said, "No, murder is worse than assault and battery." Croker and his companions were locked up in a cell until the arrival of a lawyer sent him by John Kelly, when he was brought up stairs again and taken to the Captain's room, where he remained in consultation with his counsel until Coroner Woltman arrived.

WAS M'KENNA CONSCIOUS?

The man Craig, who keeps a liquor saloon on Second avenue, and with whom McKenna boarded, gave currency on the day of the shooting to a deathbed scene in which the dying man is stated to have said that Croker had shot him. Craig at first said that McKenna stated that "either Croker or Sheridan had shot him," but changed this afterward to "Croker" alone. It is somewhat singular that none but Craig saw McKenna in his state of consciousness, and none but he has put any deathbed statement in McKenna's mouth. A HERALD reporter asked two well known physicians yesterday about this point, and they both stated that if, as had been printed, the ball had entered the brain at the temple and traversed it to the other side, it was very certain that McKenna was unconscious until the moment he died. No man with a ball in his brain would be capable of saying a word just before death, but syncope would ensue immediately upon the ball taking effect. It was generally disbelieved that McKenna had uttered the words attributed to him, and Deputy Coroners Marsh and MacWhinnie were of the same opinion.

WHAT CORONER WOLTMAN SAYS.

Coroner Woltman spoke to the writer yesterday as to the abuse he had received for the action he took in relation to the shooting of McKenna. This gentleman said that he was notified at ten o'clock by Deputy Coroner MacWhinnie and a man named Campbell that there had been a riot in the Eighteenth Assembly district and that several persons were shot. He was told the man was at the Thirty-fifth street station house. He went there and found the man who was shot was not there, but at Bellevue Hospital. He went to the hospital to take the wounded man's ante-mortem statement, but found he was unconscious and had been so since he was picked up in the street. He was informed that the man could not live, and he was unable to get any statement whatever from him, as the doctors there said he could not be revived. He went back to the station house, and on questioning all the parties about the affray, the only positive statement he could get was from a policeman who said he saw the pistol with which McKenna was shot in the hands of a young man named Maxwell, who was shown to have been miles away at the time of the shooting. O'Brien was not present and made no statement to him. Nobody present accused Croker of murder and he let him and the men that were with him go on bail, after consulting several lawyers and the statutes. If he had thought either of the men arrested had committed the crime, he would not have released them. But nobody was accused. In the evening, when he learned that McKenna was dead, he issued warrants and had the parties rearrested and had the bail increased in each case, but only to retain them as witnesses.

CORONER CROKER.

In conversation yesterday with a HERALD reporter Coroner Croker said:—

"The action of Justice Murray is not legal, because the case is in the Coroner's hands, and it should be left to him. Of course, I have no desire to escape or anything of that kind; but I don't want to be locked up in a cell for several days when there is no necessity for it. I am now under bail, and nothing can be gained by annoying me still further. They allow O'Brien, who was the real aggressor, and who has trumped up an absurd charge against me, to go free, while they pursue me in every possible way. The whole thing has not been done as it should have been. The police are on O'Brien's side, because he got nearly all of them appointed in this ward, and they are his tools. But Sergeant Christie had no business to take O'Brien's complaint and not take mine. It was because of this action of Christie that all the onus has fallen on me and so little on him. O'Brien never thought of accusing me of murder until it was suggested to him by Craig, who has always been one of his most ardent supporters. The Coroner, then coming, and finding us locked up and O'Brien gone, treated us as criminals, and tacitly admitted the charge against us, though no one made it in his presence. The fact is, everybody should have been arrested, and not simply one side of the affair. I am fair enough to say that O'Brien had no pistol; neither had I. Had I had a pistol and been inclined to use it, surely I should have drawn it on O'Brien when we were fighting face to face and he had struck me, and not upon a man whom I had never seen before to my knowledge. It is O'Brien's cunning and his aversion to me that has made him trump up this charge. As to the first part of the trouble, it was on Monday night I heard in Tammany Hall that O'Brien meant to bring a large party of bad characters over to our district to smash Tammany boxes and intimidate Tammany voters. I went to Captain Allaire and stated what I had heard, asking him to send out enough men to protect the people from the onslaught of this crowd. The Captain said he would. Next morning I left the club. At a quarter to six walked down to Second avenue and up Second avenue to Thirty-ninth street, in company with Sheridan and the two Hickeys. We found everything all right and walked back. At Thirty-fourth street we met Patrick Maguire, who had been knocked down and abused in Thirty-first street by some O'Brien men. I went to the station house once more and told Captain Allaire the scenes I feared were occurring. He said it was all right, and I responded that if he would not stop it the citizens would. He said, 'You can do as you please,' and I went away. On the corner of Thirty-fourth street and Second avenue I met Borst and Tommy Costello, the prize fighter, and I went up to them and advised them to be careful what they did. It was while I was doing this that O'Brien came up with a gang and began to speak to me in the most abusive way. I walked backwards, because I was determined not to strike him first. When I said 'You have done enough to have put you in Sing Sing three years ago,' he struck me, and the fight soon became general. If Captain Allaire had done his duty the whole thing would have been avoided."

Coroner Croker does not intend to obey the warrant of Justice Murray unless it is served upon him personally. He will then obey it, though he is advised it is illegal. None of the others who were with him have been served with this warrant.

SHERIDAN'S STORY.

The writer also saw John Sheridan, who was with Croker. He is a small, spare man. He said that he only went with Croker to see that the men on the Tammany side were doing their work properly. He had no idea of fighting anybody. Croker stood all O'Brien's abuse without any show of resistance until O'Brien struck him. When Croker struck back Sheridan says he distinctly heard O'Brien say, "Now kill the sons of ——," and the fight began. He and the two Hickeys had revolvers, with which they kept the crowd of over fifty people back. Croker had nothing but his hands. Had they not had revolvers they could not have lived two minutes. All these shots, fired at them (and there were about a dozen), might have hit anybody behind them. It was wonderful that they escaped. As for Hickey firing two shots at McKenna when he was lying dying, Hickey was a great deal too busy in protecting himself in front to stop to shoot at a dead man. All these stories contradicted themselves and were got up by O'Brien and his friends. The HERALD reporter saw several of O'Brien's friends and the ex-Sheriff himself and they repeated their stories of the day before. There was nothing new in them.

AUTOPSY ON M'KENNA.

Yesterday morning, at the Morgue, Deputy Coroner Marsh made a post mortem examination on the body of John McKenna, the man who was shot during the quarrel. Dr. Marsh found a pistol shot wound on the right side of the head, the ball passing through the right parietal bone, through the middle lobe of the right hemisphere of the brain and lodged in the middle lobe of the left hemisphere of the brain. A large clot of blood was found compressing the entire right hemisphere of the brain. The middle lobe of the right hemisphere of the brain was extremely lacerated; several fragments of the internal table of the skull were found driven into the brain. The lungs were congested and the liver slightly fatty; the internal organs were healthy. Death was due to compression of the brain from extravasation of blood from a pistol shot wound of the head.

Coroner Woltman yesterday went to the Morgue and empanelled the following named gentlemen to act as jurors in the case:—

THE JURY.

No particular day has been named for the investigation, but probably it will take place to-morrow.

WARRANTS OF ARRESTS ISSUED.

A general complaint having been made to Coroner Woltman that James O'Brien, Stephen O'Brien (his brother), William Borst, Patrick Craig and —— Costello were suspected of taking part in the affray which led to McKenna's death, he issued warrants yesterday for their apprehension. Stephen O'Brien and Patrick Craig were brought to the Coroner's office, and held to bail in $1,000 each, to await the result of an investigation. Bernard Wilson, living northeast corner of Fifty-sixth street and First avenue, became bondsman for the prisoners, who thereupon were liberated from custody.

James O'Brien, William Borst and Thomas Costello had not put in an appearance and are still at large. They will probably be arrested to-day. Captain Allaire has the warrants.

THE COURTS.

The Hodge Defalcation Case—Motion for a New Trial.

Sheriff's Fees—The Limitation Clause.

A $200,000 REVENUE CASE.

There was nothing of importance done in the State courts yesterday. Judges and lawyers have not yet got over the excitement of election day, and so there was an early adjournment of all the courts.

In coming down town yesterday morning Judge Freedman, of the Court of Common Pleas, met with quite a serious accident through his horses taking fright and running away, throwing him from the carriage. He was taken home, and it is probable that he will be prevented from discharging his judicial duties for several days.

Yesterday, in the United States District Court, Judge Blatchford called the civil jury calendar and set down cases for trial. The following persons were ordered to show cause, to-day, why they should not be punished for contempt of court in failing to attend as jurors:—Herman Bachman, F. W. Johnson, H. H. Levin, J. F. Nevarro and J. H. Nicholson.

In the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, before Judge Shipman, the case of the United States vs. Benoni Howard was brought on for trial. The defendant (Howard) had been a manufacturer of matches in 1868, and in that year he, with a surety, Elias Howard, had entered into a bond in the sum of $21,000 to secure payment for match stamps which the government had supplied him in the conduct of his business. Howard, it will be remembered, was convicted some time since of counterfeiting match stamps, and was sentenced to a term of imprisonment in the State Prison. The claim of the government is that the amount of the bond was never paid. The defendant holds that the bond was not properly executed.

Patrick Campbell, 17 East street, was charged yesterday, before Commissioner Shields, with having registered fraudulently. He was held in $500 bail for examination.

John Dickson was charged yesterday, before Commissioner Osborn, with having falsely registered his name as a voter. It turned out that the defendant was entitled to vote. The Commissioner at once discharged him.

THE HODGE DEFALCATION CASE.

Yesterday, in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Nathaniel Shipman, in the case of the United States vs. Polhamius & Jackson, a motion for a new trial was argued. It will be remembered that this case was recently tried, the suit being brought by the government against Polhamius & Jackson to recover the sum of $500,000, it being alleged that this amount of money had been placed in their custody by Mr. J. L. Hodge, a paymaster in the army, for stock speculations on his behalf and that the defendants knew that the money in question belonged to the government. The jury returned a verdict for the defendants. Yesterday the District Attorney moved that the verdict be set aside on the Judge's minutes. He claimed that there were errors in law and other inaccuracies calculated to mislead the jury and that the verdict was against the weight of evidence. He claimed that the Court had power, according to the Common law, to set aside the verdict and grant a new trial. The judge who tried the case should give a speedy audience to any motion made on his minutes to set aside a verdict. The jury had no right to disregard the law as laid down by the judge. This was a case wholly resting in the discretion of the Court, guided by fixed principles. Counsel for the defendants replied that a motion to set aside a verdict on the Judge's minutes was a practice wholly unknown to the federal courts. If errors of law were committed the question could be brought up on a bill of exceptions, and if the verdict was against the weight of evidence it could only be set aside on a case presented on argument. The jury who treated this case was a most intelligent and respectable one, and if His Honor set aside this verdict, of what use would be trial by jury? Judge Shipman took the papers and reserved his decision.

SHERIFFS' FEES.

The case of W. Bowne vs. ex-Sheriff O'Brien, which is an appeal from a verdict against the late Sheriff, came up yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas. The case arose from the purchase of some real estate sold by the ex-Sheriff, for which, as it turned out, no real title could be given. Mr. A. Oakey Hall, in opening argument for the plaintiff, remarked that there was no especial significance in the adjective "late," as Mr. O'Brien was still alive. It appeared from the statement of Henry Brewster, for the plaintiff, that in January, 1871, he bought at sheriff's sale some real estate and paid down part of the purchase money, but he found out the title was not good, whereupon the property was resold to some one else. Mr. Bowne sued and got verdict for his money, but it is now said that three months after the cause of action accorded against Sheriff O'Brien he got a law passed at Albany making a statute of limitation for one year to the prosecution of a suit against a sheriff for his official acts. The suit was not brought until two years after the payment. Mr. Hall contended that the new statute affected the remedy alone and not the cause of action, and although the latter accrued before the law, nevertheless the latter applied. Mr. Brewster argued that there could not be such a retraction. The point is interesting in its possible result upon some of the ring fraud indictments. It will be remembered that Governor-elect Tilden passed in 1872 a statute extending the criminal statute of limitation from three to five years. Some of the indictments, and notably those of Messrs. Norton and Coman, for offences which are barred by the three years under the statute that existed when they were charged to be done, but of course not by the five years. If the law contended for in this case by Mr. Brewster prevails, then the indictments against these parties are not good. The Court reserved decision.

THE NAYLOR REVENUE CASE.

Yesterday, in the United States District Court, before Judge Blatchford, the case of B. Schlessinger and others was called on for trial. This suit is known as "The Naylor Revenue Case," and has been brought to recover $200,000 for importing steel rails and fish plates at an undervaluation. Counsel for defendants, W. E. P. Wheeler, said he was ready for trial and most anxious that it should go on. Mr. Bliss, United States District Attorney, observed that evidence in this case had just been received from Europe. It was printed and formed a bulk of two feet thick. He wanted time to examine this enormous mass of testimony. Judge Blatchford asked how long it would take to try the case. Mr. Bliss said he believed it would take three weeks. Mr. Wheeler expressed his opinion that it could be disposed of in a fortnight. Judge Blatchford said the suit was a leviathan one and would, he thought, occupy three weeks in its trial. He thought time should be allowed counsel for the government to examine the evidence referred to. The case was set down for the first day of the February term.

BUSINESS IN THE OTHER COURTS.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Careless Use of Fumigating Material.

Before Judge Brady.

In June, 1873, John Fitzgerald, his wife and three children, arrived at this port in the steamship Greece, of the National Steamship Line. The steamer was stopped at Quarantine and there put through the process of fumigation. The fumigating material, consisting of chlorine gas and oil of vitriol, was put in cans such as were used by the steerage passengers for drinking purposes. One of Mr. Fitzgerald's children, a boy three years old, drank the contents of one of the cans, which, after the hatchways were opened, had through carelessness not been removed. The result was the death of the child. Suit was brought by Mr. Fitzgerald against the company for $5,000 damages on account of the death of the child. It was proven by medical testimony that the fumigating material was a deadly poison, and carelessness was established on the part of the officers of the vessel. The jury gave a verdict for $1,800 for plaintiff.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Forgery.

Before Judge Sutherland.

Corydon A. Alvord, Jr., pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with forging, on the 28th of May, a promissory note for $2,000, which purported to have been signed by Mary E. Alvord and indorsed by E. D. Tiffany, the cashier of a Hartford bank. Both the signatures were fraudulent. The accused, who appeared to be an intelligent man, said that he was negotiating Utah Mine stock in Europe. He was sent to the State Prison for three years.

Acquittals.

Thomas Gallagher was tried upon an indictment charging him with acting in complicity with another man, who escaped, in attempting to rob Emma R. Seymour, at No. 71 Madison avenue, on the 17th of October. The only evidence against the accused was that he was offering some potatoes for sale to the cook in the kitchen, when Miss Seymour was struck by a man who jumped out of her closet in the front basement. The Judge directed the jury to render a verdict of not guilty.

James Healey, a youth, was also promptly acquitted of stealing a horse and wagon on the 21st of October, owned by Stedman Wright.

John Burns, who was jointly indicted with John Clancy upon a charge of attempting to effect a burglarious entrance into a disreputable house in East Twenty-third street, was tried. A careful investigation of the facts showed that the accused and his friend had been drinking, and sought admittance into the house for the purpose of interviewing one of the female boarders rather than with the intent to steal property. The jury rendered a verdict of "Not guilty" without leaving their seats.

TOMBS POLICE COURT.

Shaving Extraordinary.

Before Judge Kasmire.

Thomas Dunn and Abe Jones are colored men, the former keeps a barber shop in Thomas street and the latter resides hard by. On election day they had a "fu wuds" about the ticket, which resulted in a row, during which Abe took out a razor and slashed Thomas on the head and neck in an unmerciful manner. Yesterday Thomas made a complaint of felonious assault against Abe at the Tombs and Judge Kasmire locked him up.

A Charge of Theft.

Al. Hall, of No. 306 West Twenty-ninth street, made a complaint against Bella Johnson for stealing from him $70 in money while he was in her company. Bella refused to say anything in reference to the charge made against her, and she was committed for examination in default of bail.

Illegal Voting.

On charge of Martin Brosnan, of the Twenty-seventh precinct, William Russell was committed for illegal voting. He, it appears, went to the polling place in the Sixth district of the First Assembly district and represented that he was Patrick Higgins, of No. 100 Greenwich street, and swore in his vote. Higgins says he never saw Brosnan, notwithstanding that that gentleman says he received instructions from him to go and vote. Brosnan was held for trial.

JEFFERSON MARKET POLICE COURT.

A Narrow Escape.

Before Judge Flammer.

Xavier Mangin keeps a boarding house at No. 53 Wooster street, and has Frenchmen generally for his customers. Among others August Semme, a charcoal burner, took up his abode there. On Tuesday evening August was rather hilarious, whether from whiskey or the result of the election is not known, and his conduct was very objectionable. Mr. Mangin at first mildly remonstrated, and then, finding that ineffective, undertook to eject his boarder forcibly. Semme, with the aid of a penknife, attempted to penetrate the region of Mr. Mangin's fifth rib, but was prevented by the latter catching the knife as it was arriving at its intended destination when it had entered his clothes and inflicted but a slight wound. The prisoner was committed in $2,000 bail for trial.

The Cost for Lighting a Fire.

Mrs. Mary Smith, of No. 146 Waverley place, had a servant named Bridget Degnan. On Monday night Mrs. Smith left her pocketbook, containing $40, on a bureau in her room. The following morning the girl made the fire in Mrs. Smith's room, and she missed her purse shortly after. Bridget was held in $1,000 bail.

FIFTY-SEVENTH STREET POLICE COURT.

Illegal Voting.

Before Judge Murray.

John Parkinson, of No. 337 First avenue, was charged with attempting to vote under the name of Albert Drown. He could give no satisfactory reason for his conduct, and he was held for trial in default of $500 bail.

Daniel B. Pierce, a recent importation from Hartford, Conn., residing at No. 892 Third avenue, attempted to vote under the name of D. H. Pierce in the Second Election district of the Twentieth Assembly district. He failed and gave the excuse to the Court that he was under the influence of liquor at the time. The Court took a merciful view of the case, and, on the recommendation of the Board of Canvassers of the district, he was discharged.

Michael Harkins, of No. 153 West Fifty-first street, was arrested on complaint of a man named Peter Masterson, Jr., who charged him with having voted from another residence not his own. The complainant did not appear and the accused was discharged. He proposes to sue Masterson for defamation of character.

Election Rows.

The Eighteenth ward was conspicuous for its election rows on Tuesday. Two serious cases were reported at this Court yesterday from it. Officer Douglas by accident came upon three men who were savagely and inhumanly beating Thomas Dunn, of No. 412 East Twenty-third street. His assailants were all arrested, and gave their names as Hugh Montgomery, alias "The Pigeon;" James Dorney and Michael Cannon. Dorney was a Special Deputy United States Marshal and was engaged in beating Dunn with a club when arrested, while Montgomery was actually eating his lips off. They were held for trial.

A fight took place on Tuesday evening, as the polls were being closed in the Fourth Election district of the Sixteenth Assembly district, during which Martin Flannigan, of No. 434 East Fifteenth street, received a blow of a stone on the head. He is now in Bellevue Hospital, suffering probably from a fractured skull. Two men, named John Mason and James Toole, were arrested by Officer Patrick Cotter, Eighteenth precinct, and committed to await the result of Flannigan's injuries. Mason is one of the Special United States Deputy Marshals appointed for Tuesday.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4, 1874.

No. 48.—The Rubber Tip Pencil Company, vs. Howard et al.—Appeal from the Circuit Court for the Southern district of New York. This was an action to recover for an alleged infringement of a patent to one Blair for a rubber head for lead pencils. The Court below decided that the invention claimed was not patentable, because it consisted simply of "a piece of rubber with a hole in it" (for the pencil to pass through), and that such a thing was not patentable. It was said also that such an article could not be the subject of a patent, because the elastic properties of rubber were known to all, and no person knowing this quality of rubber could be wanting in the knowledge that rubber could be made to encompass and adhere to a pencil inkeraser or other article of a similar character by making a hole in it, nor could any one be deficient in the skill requisite to make such a hole. It is here claimed that this view of the Court is illiberal and, tested by established principles, substantially erroneous. It is argued that it shows a want of comprehension by the Court of the real scope and value of the article, which for years have been appreciated by the public. John S. Washburn for appellants; T. H. Betts for the company.

No. 50.—State of Maryland vs. Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. Error to the Court of Appeals of Maryland.—This was an action brought by the State to recover of the company an alleged balance due as interest on the State loan to the company of 1835, the claim being that, by the act under which the loan was made, the interest was to be paid in gold, and that, such being the contract, the Legal Tender act did not release the company from such payment and permit it to pay in currency. On the other hand the company claimed that the State was simply a stockholder of the company, and not its creditor, and that its interest, which was to be in the form of a guaranteed dividend, was to be paid in the currency paid to other stockholders, and that, even if it were to be regarded as a creditor entitled to interest, it must accept it in legal tender currency of the United States. On this basis the company claimed a large amount to be due from the State, as the difference between currency and gold, which, during the war, it had to purchase to pay the interest as it fell due in London. The Court of Appeals decided that the dividend or interest to be paid in that form was payable in currency, and not in gold, and reversed the judgment of the lower Court, which was for the State. The case comes here for review, and the main question to be determined is whether the contract made by the act of 1835, as accepted by the company, amounts to such an obligation to pay the State its interest, as removes it from the operation of the Legal Tender act and renders it necessary to pay in gold. A. R. Syester, J. N. Steele, P. F. Thomas and S. T. Wallis for plaintiff in error; Reverdy Johnson and J. H. B. Latrobe for defendants.

THE M'DOUGAL HOMICIDE.

Fracture of the Skull a Mystery—Mr. Johnson Released on Bail.

Coroner Kessler yesterday held an inquest in the case of Charles McDougal, late of No. 429 West Fiftieth street, whose death it was alleged had been caused by violence received at the hands of James E. Johnson, on the night of the 10th ult. The testimony of several witnesses was taken but nothing was elicited to show that McDougal had been struck on the head with a weapon. It was shown that on the night in question he poured a quantity of ashes over a man who sat in front of Johnson's place, when the latter expostulated with him for so doing. McDougal then became very abusive, whereupon Mr. Johnson gave him a push, but he did not fall, and ran off down Ninth avenue. Soon he returned with a crowd, and tried to enter Johnson's place for liquor, but he, being drunk, was not admitted. Deputy Coroner Leo, who made an autopsy, found that McDougal had received a compound comminuted fracture of the skull. The jury found that he came to his death by fracture of the skull, received in some manner to them unknown. On this verdict the Coroner held Mr. Johnson in $1,000 bail, which he procured and was released.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Board of Education held a regular meeting yesterday afternoon, at their rooms, Elm and Grand streets, President Neilson in the chair.

The President announced the death of Mr. Kelly, an inspector of public schools, and several members of the Board made remarks eulogistic of the deceased gentleman. Mr. Farr offered appropriate resolutions, one of which was that the Board attend the funeral in a body. The Committee on Trustees was empowered to nominate a trustee for each ward, in accordance with the act of 1873, said trustee to hold office for five years. The Auditing Committee reported that by attention they had effected a reduction of $3,500 for the year ending October, 1874, as compared with the previous year, and furthermore, that they believed the cost of gas might be still reduced. A report from the Committee on Finance was approved favoring the action that had been taken in purchasing, at $3,100, a copy of Houdon's statue of Washington, the money to be raised by the children of the schools and the statue to be placed in Central Park. The Committee on Bylaws reported against permitting pupils to go errands for principals or teachers, thus doing away with a custom that has long prevailed in the public schools. At the previous meeting of the Board the janitors were also excluded from doing such duty. The President stated that it had been announced that the Board of Apportionment had reduced, by $380,000, the estimates for the year, and made some remarks with the intent to modify the impulse of the Board. Commissioner Beardslee spoke strongly against the reduction. Some other of the Commissioners wished that the subject should be left in the hands of the Finance Committee. The President stated that no member of the Board of Education had been consulted about the reduction, but at the same time, considering the reductions in the other departments, he thought that they ought not to act peremptorily, while at the same time they ought to persuade. Commissioner Dowd finally moved that the whole matter be referred to the Finance Committee, with power to wait upon the Board of Estimates, and the motion was adopted.

At the close of the meeting the President announced that there would be a meeting of the School Commissioners, trustees, inspectors and teachers at All Souls' church, Twentieth street and Fourth avenue, at ten A. M. to-day, when a procession will be formed to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Kelly.

THE GLENDENNING TRIAL.

An Inside View of a Foundling Asylum—Further Testimony Regarding the Identification of Glendenning.

Yesterday was the sixteenth day of the Glendenning trial at Jersey City. The crush of spectators was as great as on the preceding days of the trial. Many spectators could not obtain admission. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Riggs.

Mrs. Caroline Wetmore testified:—I am head of several committees in charge of the Clinton Place Nursery, New York; there has been no matron in the asylum; Mrs. Greystock was a servant there; she was a poor, friendless woman, who was taken in as an inmate; when her child died she was employed as a wet nurse at $8 per month; she filled that position about six months; she attended the door and did the errands;

I ENJOINED SILENCE

on her with regard to the transactions occurring in the establishment. The remainder of her testimony was devoted to the contradiction of "Nelly's" statements, as witness styled the nurse. The witness said that she was very careful in her conversation with Mrs. Metz, as there were so many misstatements in the papers about the case she was very cautious what she would say to Jersey City people. (Laughter.) She cautioned "Nelly" not to see any Jersey City people, and not to come over to testify on either side of the case; but, though she cautioned her repeatedly, she knew she would come. (Laughter.) She was satisfied that "Nelly" knew nothing at all about this case, but manufactured her statements. (Laughter.) "Nelly" was a pure, virtuous woman, but very untruthful. (Laughter.) The witness protested so much and rattled off her testimony so volubly that there were repeated manifestations of merriment among the audience. One sentence was particularly relished: "I could tell you from here till to-morrow (stretching out her arms in a gesture of astonishment) of the story telling of that woman." But when she was relating her experiences of the three classes of females with whom she came in contact at the asylum and the statements of such persons regarding the authors of their ruin, she dropped one sentence which elicited from the audience as the object and venom were too palpable. "My experience is that in cases where a woman takes an oath as to the father of her illegitimate child that must be her second child." This reply seemed to astound even the committee for the defence, and Dr. Dod announced that he had no more questions to ask. The witness, however, was not to be disposed of so easily, for she followed with this explanation: "I once knew a girl who told me on her dying bed that she was going into eternity with a lie on her lips; that she would rather than betray her friend; and I know she did so die, for she had an object in view, and when a woman has an object in view she—well, she generally accomplishes it." (Sensation.) "Nelly" told her that when Mr. Glendenning called at the asylum he had his hat pulled down on his eyes, but she did not believe her. (Laughter.) The witness pointed at Glendenning with her umbrella and said that she recognized him the moment he entered the church from a photograph which the Rev. Mr. Moore showed her at the Clinton place institution. This was followed by another movement among the audience, and it began to appear as if the defence could not prevent her from telling a little too much. The most humorous statement was that "Nelly," when she went out, always said she had been to Mrs. Wetmore's, and the girls said I must have been bored to death.

A LOUD EXPRESSION OF HORROR

Mrs. Morford, another of the ladies in the Clinton place institution, testified that Mrs. Greystock was very unreliable and untruthful; she told witness about a gentleman calling at the institution with reference to the admission of a young girl; he had his

HAT OVER HIS FACE;

Mrs. Greystock never told witness, however, about it till after Mrs. Miller had called. On cross-examination she was asked what was Mrs. Wetmore's estimate of "Nelly's" character, and the witness replied, "Why, she thought 'Nelly' was perfect." (Laughter.) Here was a direct contradiction of the previous witness.

Dr. Dod asked for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony of Mrs. Middleton, No. 313 West Thirty fifth street. The Rev. Dr. Eddy, Rev. Mr. Egbert and Rev. Mr. Martin were appointed. The defence had expected other witnesses, and as they were not in attendance, the Presbytery adjourned to this afternoon.

Recapitulation.

Total number of Democrats elected	127
Total number of Republicans elected	84

THE RESULTS ELSEWHERE.

Massachusetts shows an astonishingly sudden change in the sentiment of her people. The democratic majorities are decisive. Gaston's majority (dem.) for Governor over Talbot (rep.) is 7,817. The Congressional delegation will have a majority of three democrats, standing 4 republicans to 7 democrats. The State Senate has 16 democrats to 24 republicans; the House, 85 democrats to 151 republicans.

In Kansas the "reform State ticket" has obtained a large majority. The Congressional delegation will consist of one democrat and two republicans.

Alabama has elected the democratic State ticket by about 8,000 majority, representing a gain of about 10,000 votes. A democratic majority in the Legislature is secured. The Congressional delegation will probably stand thus:—six democrats to two republicans, a gain of three members of Congress for the opposition.

The republican candidate for Congressional delegate from Washington Territory is elected by about 500 majority.

In South Carolina Chamberlain is elected Governor by a majority of 15,000. Moses is defeated in his contest for the Legislature. The delegation to the Forty-fourth Congress will consist of three republicans to two democrats. The democratic candidate to fill the short term is elected.

In New Jersey the democrats elect Bedle to the Governorship by a majority of 12,000 over Halsey, the republican candidate. The Congressional delegation will probably stand four democrats to three republicans. The State Senate is the same in division of politics as last year. The House will have 39 democratic members to 21 republicans—a democratic gain of 11.

In Nevada, Bradley, (democratic) is re-elected Governor. The Legislature is constituted so as to favor Sharon for United States Senator.

In Michigan it is claimed that Chamberlain, democrat, is elected Governor by a majority of 1,500 over Bagley, republican. The Congressional delegation will probably stand 5 republicans to 4 democrats.

In Georgia the entire delegation of Congressmen is democratic.

The entire Congressional delegation from Maryland is democratic.

LOUISIANA.

Alleged Intention of the Returning Board to Count the Radical Candidates Into Office—Danger of a Revolution Resulting—Popular Exasperation Kindling.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4, 1874.

Governor Wells, Chairman of the Returning Board, is in the city. He refuses to resign to allow the appointment of conservative members, and has called a session of the Board for the 11th to count the vote and declare the result. It is very evident that the radical leaders intend to count radicals in, as they are to-day securing affidavits charging intimidation of negroes in these parishes and in districts of the city where the whites are in the majority, so as to throw them out. Herwig, Deputy Collector, is credited with the statement that the Returning Board will give the republicans 12,000 majority. The whites are greatly excited, and openly declare that the moment this is attempted they will hang the participants for outrage upon the rights of a free people, even if the federal army have to be brushed aside to reach the persons of the offenders. Governor McEnery has just declared to me that, while he has counselled moderation and submission until the people had a just election, if such an attempt is made it will be a revolution, and he will be in favor of meeting revolution with revolution. He thinks that President Grant will not dare use the army to protect men in such deeds of outrage, and even if he does he believes the people will summarily punish them in the face of the entire army.

A gentleman, who was present and heard this declaration of the Governor, declared that he would go further, and if the whites were counted out not a man of them would be left alive, even if the whites were forced to meet in conflict with the forces of the United States. The people are not in the temper to bear more, and so exasperated are they that if the Returning Board throw out the white voters I expect to see the lamp-posts adorned with Kellogg, Packard and others before the federal troops can be concentrated to protect them.

Latest News of the Results of the Election—The Successful Candidates—Feeling in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 4, 1874.

At a late hour this morning the Journal summed up the result of yesterday's election as follows:—The election of Gaston (dem.) for Governor by a plurality of 7,817. For Congress—Buffinton (rep.) is elected in the First district by 4,420; Harris (rep.) is elected in the Second by 2,810; Pierce (rep.) is elected in the Third by 3,072; Frost (rep.) is elected in the Fourth by 30; Banks (ind.) is elected in the Fifth by 5,938; Thompson (dem.) is elected in the Sixth by 972; Tarbox (dem.) is elected in the Seventh by 1,470; Warren (dem.) is elected in the Eighth by 574; Hoar (rep.) is elected in the Ninth by 487; Seelye (ind. rep.) is elected in the Tenth by 540; Chapin (dem.) is elected in the Eleventh by 5,470.

The Legislature will stand as follows:—Senate—Republicans, 24; democrats, 16. House—Republicans, 151; democrats, 85.

The Council will probably stand—Republicans, 6; democrats, 2.

All the republican State ticket except Talbot is elected.

The Legislature is largely opposed to prohibition.

The feeling in this city and section over the result of the election is profound, and the interest to-day has been scarcely less than yesterday. The papers unite in ascribing the defeat to the abuses which have crept into the republican State party and its apparent sympathy with corruption. They urge a cleansing process and predict a more glorious record than ever in the future as the result of the temporary defeat. The defeat of Butler and Ayers is hailed with satisfaction, even by the republican press. Butler takes it coolly, and to-day said:—"If the republican party can stand its losses, I think I can bear my share."

The democrats in the various parts of the State celebrated their victory to-day by firing 100 guns. In Maine and New Hampshire salutes were fired. At Gloucester 100 guns were fired to-night, and Thompson made a speech at the City Hall to his constituents.

The struggle in the Fourth district between the friends of Frost and Abbott promises to be lively. It is believed that Frost's election will be maintained, though the Abbott party insist that a recount will elect the latter.
